U.S. Bombers Head for Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States suspended its B52 strikes in Vietnam again today and sent the bombers against North Vietnamese troops who captured the Plain of Jars in Laos in an overnight battle.

Spokesmen for the U.S. Command said the last raid flown by the Stratoforts in Vietnam was late Friday against what were described as guerrilla troop concentrations 46 miles southeast of Saigon.

A major campaign test of the Vietnam War has apparently developed with the announcement by upstate Democratic Rep. Samuel S Stratton that he will seek reelection in a new district and will run against Rep. Daniel E. Button in the Albany area. Story on page 3.

Military sources reported that the eight-engine bombers, freed from Vietnam obligations, headed into Laos for raids against the North Vietnamese troops who seized the Plain of Jars early today.

Official spokesmen do not comment on the bombing in Laos.

Military sources in the Laotian capital said the defenders of the fallen outpost, the air field at Xieng Khouang, had fled the plain altogether, leaving only a handful of regular army units there.

This would leave the entire 25-mile-long area open for B52 strikes against the estimated 16,000 North Vietnamese invaders. All civilians have been evacuated.

In Vietnam, military spokesmen reported three battles from Friday in which American units lost eight killed and 50 wounded against no losses to the guerrillas they fought.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says the Pentagon budget this year is so austere that Congress probably will increase it. Congressional critics of defense spending have something else in mind.

"I still feel very strongly we can reduce military spending $10 billion below what Secretary Laird recommends," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., told newsmen Friday after Laird warned Senate military committees that the United States was in danger of becoming a second-rate power.

Broadway Bids 'On the Money'

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency was "on the money" again after bids for the reconstruction of Broadway and Ferry Street were opened yesterday.

Low bid was $859,916 from the Callanan Road Improvement Company. Agency officials had previously disclosed that they had budgeted the project in the $800,000 to $900,000 range."

Other bids were received from Thalle Construction, for $1,075,251; from John Arborio Inc., for $1,268,720 and from Halmar Construction for $1,413,399.

A spokesman for the agency said that Callanan is "the apparent low bidder," subject to review by the agency's engineers, Brinnier and Larios and approval by the federal government.

The agency has had mixed results in bringing in public improvement projects within its allotted funds. It's first major project, last May, was the Uptown parking garage, budgeted at $720,000. Bids on that project came in over a million dollars above estimates. The agency later used the "design-construct" method and was successful in staying within its budget.

The bids for the new Clinton Avenue extension, from the foot of Fair Street to Washington Avenue, came in near Agency estimates of about $850,000.

Despite the so-called "tight money situation," the agency's call for bids on the Broadway-Ferry Street project resulted in 20 sets of specifications requested, 11 by general contractors.

The reconstruction project will include Broadway from St. Mary's Street to Ferry Street and Ferry Street out to the city sewage treatment plant on The Strand into four-lane highways. The work will also include underground storm and sanitary sewers, landscaping, traffic lights and street lights.

The project will be undertaken in two phases. Work from Stuyvesant Street to Abeel Street will be included in the first phase which the agency plans to begin this spring.

Plans call for the widening of Broadway from Stuyvesant Street to the top of Broadway just beyond St. Mary's Church and School.

The four-lane highway will begin at the top of Broadway. According to James G. Connors, executive director of the agency, each lane in the four-lane highway on Broadway will be 12 feet wide with a 16-foot mall in the center. The agency also plans 12-foot sidewalks along the road.

The new Ferry Street will have 12-foot lanes with a 12-foot center mall with 12-foot sidewalks on the north side and eight-foot sidewalks on the south side.

Agency officials said that the construction of the new road will be coordinated with the construction of the proposed new city hall at Meadow Street and Broadway. The Common Council is currently reviewing plans for that building.

Contracts for the road project are expected to be signed within a month. It is expected that completion of the job will take 18 months.

A Case Against Dissolution

By NANCY SULLIVAN

ROSENDALE

"Money will not be saved by dissolving the Village of Rosendale."

This was the opinion of Norman Kellar, former village attorney and two representatives from the League of Women Voters, who spoke at Friday night's informational meeting on the dissolution of the Village of Rosendale.

About 50 persons attended the meeting, including Kellar, who spoke to the group and the two representatives from the League of Women Voters, who have been doing a study on the dissolution of villages for the past four years.

Kellar, who had previously done a study on dissolution, said that one advantage of dissolving the village would be that the duplication of services would be eliminated. In turn, the salaries of the village officials would be eliminated. However, if the village is dissolved, according to Kellar, the elimination of one set of public officials would have to be replaced by commissioners to govern separate districts, such as a water district and a lighting district.

The statute which governs dissolution was written in 1847. According to Kellar it is archaic, vague, offers no guidelines, test cases and has been used only once by a village which was confronted by many lawsuits after its use. Kellar suggested that dissolution would be feasible only if the village could get the legislature to enact a different statute. The way the present law is worded, it does not favor a village dissolution, he added.

A second disadvantage Kellar cited was that while the village debts would be retained, the village assets would no longer be its own.

Kellar also pointed out that taxes wouldn't be eliminated but shifted in another direction. The various services would still have to be paid for. The village woud lose about two-thirds of their state aid, and the utility tax would be eliminated.

The loss of "home rule" was another disadvantage cited by Kellar.

Mrs. DeStefano told The Freeman that she was of the opinion that Richard Priest, the organizer of the petitions, "could have at least been there to present his case."

Walter Byer, a resident of the village, said last night's hearing was a "stacked meeting." Byer said it was far from objective because Kellar, at the offset of the meeting, not only stated that he was of the opinion that Priest's petitions were invalid, but he also predicted that the outcome of the show cause order, slated for a March 6 Supreme Court session, would be that Priest would lose his case and the question would not be on the March 17 ballot.

47 Killed In Plane Crash

WUERENLINGEN, Switzerland (AP) — A Swissair passenger plane bound for Israel with 47 passengers and crew crashed into a forest 200 feet from Switzerland's first atomic research reactor today. There were no survivors.

The aircraft—Swissair flight 330—had taken off from Zurich for Tel Aviv.

Hearts on Their Sleeves

Ellenville patrolmen R. K. Baker and L. M. Quick (seated) display their new uniform addition, the United States flag arm patch. The idea is credited to former Mayor Eugene Glusker. Chief Abe Rand said that his department is one of the few in the state, and the only one in Ulster County, to use "Old Glory" in this manner. Ellenville Mayor Robert Dowling also sports a metal flag on his coat lapel, and endorses the idea. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Kidnaped Infant...No Ill Effects

OZARK, Ala. (UPI)—Searchers found tiny kidnap victim Shaun Yvette McLeroy Friday night, wrapped in a yellow blanket and hidden in a clump of sagebrush. She apparently suffered no ill effects from her 34-hour adventure.

A mysterious note, stuffed in the mailbox of the four-month-old girl's parents, told them where to find her.

"Your baby is in the woods on the Shipperville Road a quarter mile outside the city limits," the note said.

A helicopter's searchlight danced across the grass and brush in a generally heavily wooded area some 45 minutes later and Army WO Doug Batson spotted the little girl.

Concern had been intense at this Army base city after the child was taken Thursday from the parked car of her mother who had run into a grocery store. Shaun Yvette suffers from a dangerous form of epilepsy and doctors had feared she would die if she did not receive medication.

Smiling up at her rescuers despite cold hands and face, the baby was rushed to a local hospital where a physician said a preliminary examination showed her to be in "fine" shape.

Then she was transferred to Lyster Army Hospital at Ft. Rucker, where the father, WO Dennis McElroy is in helicopter flight training. A military doctor, Capt. John Holister, also said the child appeared in good condition.

Ecumenical Series in New Paltz

NEW PALTZ

A three session, ecumenically sponsored, study will be held during the latter part of the Lenten Season sponsored by five of the New Paltz Christian churches.

The series will be entitled, Renewal of Hope and will be led by Dr. Rhys Williams, rector of Christ Church (Episcopal), Poughkeepsie. Dr. Williams has had a wide variety of teaching experiences including three years as instructor in Old Testament at General Theological Seminary in New York City. He has also served as Associate Professor of Old Testament at Nashotah House in Wisconsin from 1959-1961. The past six years he has served as lecturer in theology at Marist College, Poughkeepsie.

The first session in this series will be held on March 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the School of Religion of St. Joseph's Church, South Chestnut Street and will deal with the topic, A New Perspective On History. This session will explore the case for the Biblical view of history against the belief that life is absurd.

The second session, March 17, will deal with the topic, Promise and Fulfillment. The final meeting on March 24, Tuesday of Holy Week, will be entitled, The New Humanity and will focus on the meaning of death and resurrection for daily life. All members of the community are invited to attend and the only charge will be a registration fee which covers the enrollment for the entire three sessions. The student fee will be nominal. The session will start at 7:30 p.m. promptly and a fellowship - discussion hour will follow each session at which time individual conversation with the speaker will be encouraged.

The series is being sponsored by the United Methodist, Lutheran, Episcopal, Reformed and Roman Catholic Churches of New Paltz. All members of the community and Mid - Hudson area may attend all three of these sessions on the Renewal of Hope.

RED HOOK SEMINAR—Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., behind podium, spoke on the "Application of the Christian Ethic in Political Decisions" at a recent Inter-Faith Seminar held at United Methodist Church, Red Hook. Shown (L) with Fish are the Rev. Leonard F. Neils of St. Paul's and Trinity Episcopal Church, the Rev. Russell E. Sargent, United Methodist Church; Fish, Henry Mitchell, Inter-Failth Seminar Committee and William Taylor, committee co-chairman.

Questions Posed By Lenten Guest

REV. GARY MEHL

KINGSTON

Was it easy for Christ to die for us? Are we taking our Lord Jesus Christ somewhat for granted? Do we think we have our Crucified Lord under control?

These are questions that the Rev. Gary L. Mehl, of Immanuel Lutheran Church, will try to answer this Sunday night as he preaches the sermon at the second community Lenten Service to be held at the First Baptist Church, at 7:30 p.m. The service is sponsored by the Kingston Area Council of Churches. Assisting in the service will be the Rev. Dr. David Gaise of the Redeemer Lutheran Church and the choir from Fair Street Reformed Church. The host pastor is the Rev. Norman F. Blosat.

The week night Lenten series continues Thursday at the Fair Street Reformed Church beginning at 6:30 p.m. with a covered dish supper. The Waymakers from Mount Saint Alphonsus will present the program for the evening.

In cooperation with the Kingston Area Council of Churches worship services will be held at the following local institutions Sunday:

The Rev. Robert Clementz at the Ulster County Infirmary 1:30 p.m.; the Rev. Frederick Dunn at the Golden Hill Annex, 2 p.m.; and the Rev. Harry Robinson at the Home for the Aged 2 p.m.

Bloomington Church Plans Study Program

BLOOMINGTON

A series of study programs have been started at the United Reformed Church of the Town of Rosendale, Bloomington.

During Lent Wednesday evening meetings will be devoted to a study of Christian doctrines. Programs beginning 8 p.m. each Wednesday will be held through March 18.

A Family Life study group will start 8:15 p.m. Monday. Parents may attend. Discussion topics will be established at this first meeting.

Both the Lenten programs and the Family Life group will be conducted by the Rev. Richard E. Lake, pastor.

A four-month study of Christian education today will be undertaken by the church school teaching staff, Eugene Odell, superintendent and the consistory. The research group will meet monthly to consider five areas related to religious education.

Representing the consistory in the in-depth study will be William Sacher, Eugene Natoli, Robert Howe and George Mollenhauer.

DISCUSSING PLANS—Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, (D-Amsterdam), announced Friday that he would run for Congress in the 29th district in opposition to the incumbent Daniel S. Button. Here Stratton (L), discusses his plans with Albany Mayor Erastus Corning (C), and Schenectady County Democratic Chairmman George Palmer. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Stratton-Button: A Test of Viet

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. UPI—Rep. Samuel S. Stratton's election campaign in Eastern New York had the backing of the Schenectady County Democratic committee and the opposision of the New Democratic Coalition today, signaling a major campaign test of the Vietnam war.

George H. Palmer, Schenectady County chairman, said the county's executive committee endorsed the Amsterdam Democrat at a meeting late Friday.

The NDC, Meanwhile, said it would oppose Stratton in the June 23 Democratic primary. The anti-war coalition, a source said, would hold a meeting in the next few weeks of the membership in Albany, Schenectady and Montgomery counties to decide on a candidate to oppose Stratton.

The NDC has said repeatedly it would oppose Stratton, who has a conservative voting record and has been a supporter of the Vietnam war, if he chose to run against Rep. Daniel E. Button in the Albany area. An Americans for Democratic Action rating earlier this year gave Stratton a 40 per cent liberal rating, lowest among the state's Democratic congressional members. Button's mark was close to 80.

Stratton announced earlier in the day he would face Button in the Mohawk Valley district, rather than run in the Syracuse area.

The new 29th District will be the third in which Stratton has run under Republican reapportionments. The former Schenectady mayor has only a few Montgomery towns and his home city of Amsterdam in the new district.

He immediately picked up the support not only of Palmer and the Schenectady organization, but of Mayor Erastus Corning II of Albany and the Albany organization headed by longtime power Daniel P. O'Connell.

The Albany County support was significant. He was turned down several years ago when he sought support in Albany because he was a maverick who wouldn't go along with the long entrenched organization's policies.

Does the Albany County backing make him a "machine candidate" newsmen asked?

"Anyone who knows Sam Stratton knows I'm as independent as a hog on ice," Stratton replied.

Former Congressman Leo W. O'Brien, whose retirement four years ago cleared the way for Button's election, said the Democrats had a winner in Albany.

"If he won by 72,000 votes in his district with the registration stacked against him 6-1, imagine what he will do in this district where it's only 3-2 against him," O'Brien said.

Stratton's old district was one of the most unusual political oddities in state history. Carved out by Republicans who sought to defeat Stratton in 1962, the 35th meandered nearly 200 miles across New York State farmlands, avoiding Democratic urban centers like a plague.

Traveling through the district in a battered old black Chrysler, which he drove himself, Stratton spoke at every church supper, grange meeting and Elks Club outing that would invite him. He boasted a voting record to the right of many Republicans, and farmers who never voted for a Democrat in their life, were convinced they had a friend in Sam Stratton.

Now Stratton is back in a more urban district, but he believes the politics that served him in the farm lands will bring him victory in Amsterdam, Schenectady and Albany.

Samuels Gains Backers; Lane Cools Nickerson

United Press International

The Howard J. Samuels gubernatorial campaign wagon moved forward with three new horses today, while Eugene H Nickerson hit a roadblock set up by Republican conservationists.

Samuels announced in New York Friday he had picked up the support of three more county organizations— Sullivan, Orleans and Franklin — bringing his total to 21 of the state's 62 counties.

In Albany, Nickerson was thwarted in an attempt to speak before the Assembly Conservation Committee by its chairman, Clarence D. Lane, R-Windham. Lane said the Nassau County executive's remarks were not addressed to any of the bills before the hearing and the committee was "not a political forum."

Nickerson, however, filed his statement calling for a $1.6 billion new pure waters bond issue and the banning of internal combustion engines by 1975.

The Roslyn Democrat, who entered the Democratic race for governor Wednesday, blasted the $1 billion Albany South Mall state office complex and the New York City World Trade Center as "monument building." He said the money spent by the administration of Governo Rockefeller on the mall could be used to house 50,000 persons.

In the New York U. S. Senate Democratic race:

—Paul O'Dwyer, the Democratic loser in the 1968 race against Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N. Y., joined Manhattan Borough President Percy E. Sutton in kicking off the campaign for Congress of Assemblyman Charles B. Rangel. Rangel is seeking to wrest the Democratic nomination in Harlem from Rep. Adam Clayton Powell.

—Morris B. Abram of Pawling, Putnam County, will announce his candidacy for the Democratic Senate nomination, according to a spokesman. Abram will resign as president of Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass., Monday to run inn New York. The former United Nations oficial dropped out of the 1968 New York Democratic Senate race in February to take the university position.

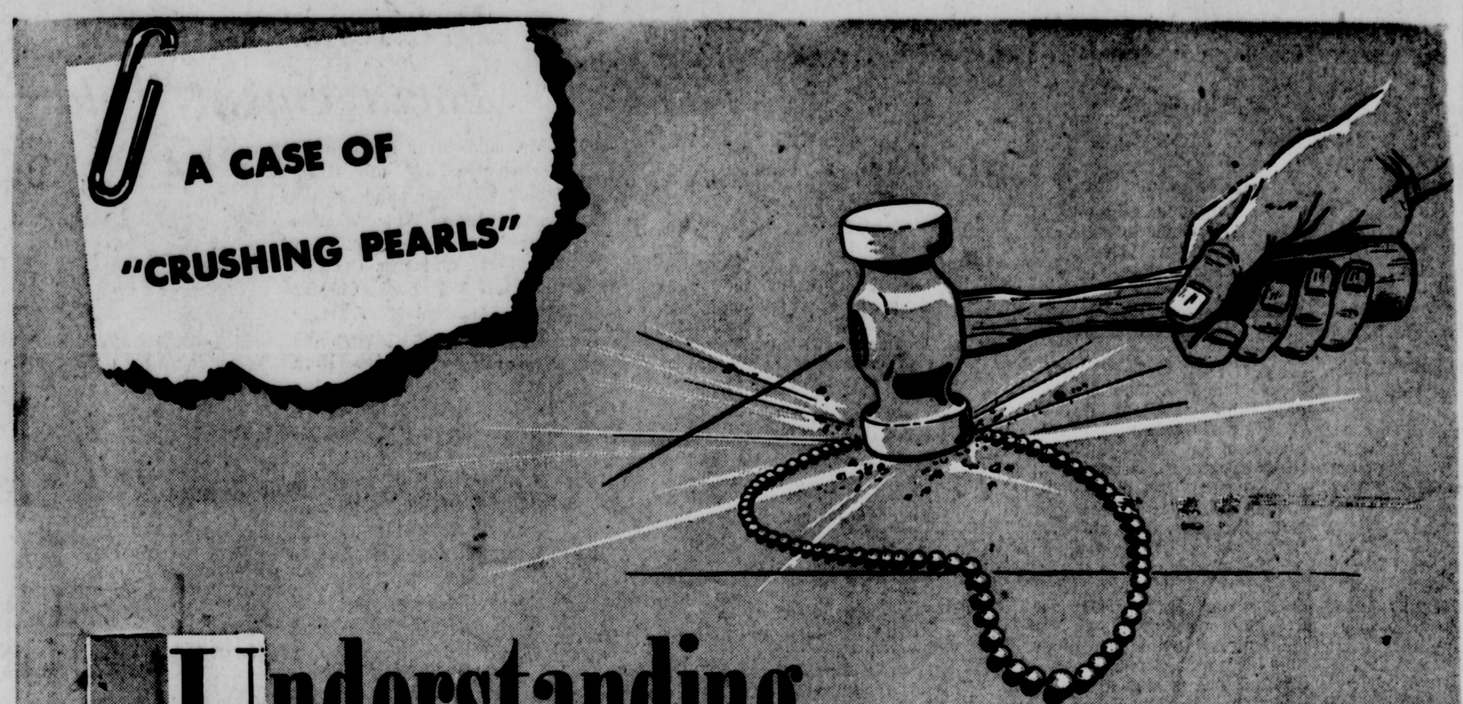

—Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D- Pleasantville, told the Congregation Agudas Achim in Yonkers that the Nixon administration's Middle East policy was "bent on courting Arab favor at the expense of our traditional and moral ties with Israel."

Understanding Christ on Baptism

Many people look upon baptism as a ceremony devoid of meaning. They cannot see beyond or beneath the outward physical act.

To others baptism is thought of primarily as a "church ordinance" – an official requirement of church membership.

The carnal mind conceives of baptism as a mere "ducking" in water, an outward form of religion, a religious formality. In like manner, the term "water salvation" is applied to all who adhere to Christ's teaching on the necessity of baptism.

These materialistic, legalistic misconceptions of baptism are clear examples of "crushing pearls" – a description given by Christ to those incapable of comprehending spiritual truth (Matthew 7:6). Such views fail to grasp the deep spiritual significance of baptism.

Only two accounts in all of the Bible teach mankind what Christian baptism is, and both of them describe baptism as a burial. These two accounts are:

"Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection" (Romans 6:3-5).

"Buried with him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with him through faith of the operation of God, who hath raised him from the dead" (Colossians 2:12).

From these scriptures we can discern the spiritual side of baptism. In baptism we are united with Christ in his death, burial, and resurrection. Since the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ are the principal facts of the gospel, it follows that we obey the gospel of Christ by reproducing or re-enacting in our lives, symbolically, the death, burial, and resurrection of the Lord. As a man is buried in water he presents to the world a picture of the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ, thereby demonstrating his faith in Christ's death. This is the "form of doctrine" alluded to by Paul in Romans 6:17.

Baptism, therefore, is the very act through which we are brought spiritually into Christ and his spiritual body (Galatians 3:27; 1 Corinthians 12:13).

The teaching of baptism is inextricably connected with the remission of sins made possible by the shed blood of Christ (Matthew 26:28). Peter told the believing Jews on Pentecost to "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins" (Acts 2:38). Paul was instructed to "Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins" (Acts 22:16). Jesus taught the necessity of baptism when he declared, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved" (Mark 16:16).

This is not "water salvation," for water cannot save! Peter teaches, "The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God), by the resurrection of Christ" (1 Peter 3:21).

Baptism, then, is not a ceremony or formality. It must be spiritually discerned in order to be properly understood. Baptism is the divinely appointed means by which we are united with Christ in his death, burial, and resurrection. When we are baptized into his death, we gain the benefit of his shed blood: the remission of our sins. When we are raised with him, we gain the benefit of his resurrection: the promise of eternal life.

Art Sale and Chamber Recital Planned for Sunday

The public is invited to attend two Woodstock events being sponsored as part of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic's Sustaining Fund Drive. The events, an art sale and a chamber recital, are both scheduled for Sunday afternoon, at St. Gregory's Church on Route 212 east of Woodstock.

During the art sale in the parish hall from 2 to 6 p.m., the public may select from the many prints and drawings being contributed by Woodstock artists who want HVP to remain a part of cultural environment. Guests will see the fine works of such artists as Reginald Wilson, Ernest Rivera, Herbert Crubb, Sylvia Grad, Kenneth Downer, Brodsky, Marilyn Baer, Jane Axel, Lucille Blanch, Brock Brockenshaw, John Ernst, William Gambini, Lee Downer, Maya Jackson, Jean Wrolsen, Stefan Lokos Samual Prager, Woody Ballard, Ann Roberts, Dan Gottschalk, and others. Any print or drawing may be purchased at a nominal fee.

The hours set for the art sale will allow patrons to view the works in the parish hall both before and after the second event, the Chamber Recital, which will be held at 4 p.m. in the church.

At the recital, the public will hear the accomplished performances of Eleanor Diemer, Melissa Sweet, and Beatrice Bright. The program will begin with two works for (Mrs. Sweet), and harpsichord (Mrs. Bright) — a Sonata in G. Major by C. P. E. Bach and one in G Minor by Vivaldi. Then Mrs. Bright will switch to piano first to join Miss Diemer in playing a Hebrew melody, 'Hamabdil' and then Mrs. Sweet in playing a Sonata by Poulenc. Mrs. Sweet will also play an expressive solo flute suite, 'Acht Stucke', by Hindemith. The recital tickets for adults and for students will be deductible from the purchase of a print or drawing.

HVPS FUND RAISING CAMPAIGN — Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society's Sustaining Fund Campaign is slated to continue until February 28 in its efforts to raise $75,000. Among the volunteers are (L-R) Mrs. Donald Schultz, captain; John Lewis and Mrs. William Gould. Mrs. Schultz and Mrs. Gould are members of the orchestra.

St. Mary's Mothers to Meet Monday Evening at School Hall

The Mothers Society of St. Mary's School will meet Monday, Feb. 23, at 8:15 p.m. in the school auditorium. This meeting was postponed from last week. The faculty will be available for conferences in the auditorium at 7:30 p.m. All mothers of children in the school are asked to attend the meeting.

For a Bright Smile

Brushing teeth after meals sounds more like a health hint than a beauty pointer — but actually, it's both. Brushing not only makes for decay-free teeth, it makes for a bright, attractive smile — which accents a woman's beauty.

Local Girl Receives Cap

Lynn Tucker daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tucker of 80 West O'Reilly Street, Kingston, received her cap at the Capping ceremonies held on February 21 at Albany Law School Auditorium. This signifies the satisfactory completion of the first six months in the school. Her cap was presented to her by Mrs. Helen F. Middleworth, Director of the School of Nursing. Miss Tucker is a 1969 graduate of Kingston High School.

Horrible Example

It is said of Lake Erie in the United States, that it is so polluted that if anyone falls into it, they don't drown, they just decay." Prince Philip, British Queen Elizabeth's consort, told a conservation conference of the Council of Europe in Strasbourg, France, in an exaggerated comparison.

Philip was citing a horrible example to drive home the point that this pollution and decay "can happen here." He was pleading for drastic political action to clean up the world. This is almost necessary if any considerable part of the world is to be rid of pollution, for impure air and water do get into streams that pass on until they do soil the entire atmosphere.

President Nixon did not take on the world with his major message on cleaning the environment. The United States is big enough for him to tackle, with the help of Congress, and improve the quality of life here. A $4 billion program for municipal waste treatment plants and a 5-year research program to develop a pollution-free automobile are two highly necessary starts. They aim at key polluters of water and air.

Also, it is essential to find ways of disposing of solid waste—paper, glass and tin—that are piling up into mountains across the country.

Better still, as the President suggested, we must find ways to re-use this trash both to recapture and salvage economic values. Also to get rid of the eye sores and turn them to good use.

Here is an opportunity for a new breed of researcher and engineer who can invent and develop uses for the vast useless accumulation. And how about searching the U.S. Patent Office? Some little inventors may have found the answers long ago, but did not have the funds to make them work.

The Non-Seekers of Work

It is widely thought today that people no longer want to work, and if they happen to get a job, they do as little as possible to hold it. Or they keep it just long enough to be able to collect workman's compensation to be added to the welfare check the head of the family may be collecting. Right or wrong, as unemployment lists become longer, the Labor Department's analysis of why so many are not in the labor force becomes of considerable interest.

In the fall of 1969, there were 134.6 million in the civilian population 16 years of age or over. The work force was 82.1 million. That left 52.5 million who were neither working outside their home nor actively seeking work. Of these, 33.1 million had home responsibilities. Another 5.8 million were retired, 4.6 million were in ill health or disabled, 3.6 million were in school, 0.6 million thought they could not get a job and didn't try, and 4.8 million were not in the labor force for a variety of reasons.

Though not actively seeking work and therefore not regarded as unemployed, 4.4 millon are reported to want a job. In this group are 3.3 million women of whom 0.4 million think they cannot get work, and 1.1 million men about 200,000 of whom think they cannot get a job.

If this complicates the picture, it is not surprising, for this is the first time that the Department of Labor is publishing figures about persons who are not seeking employment but who may be available for work. The department's idea is to help employers find these people who are employable but not trying to find work. It is looking beyond the present to the time when inflation will be licked and people will want to work and employers will again be recruiting.

The New Discipline

Psychologists at the American Institutes for Research are trying out the new discipline in workshops for teachers in Pittsburgh. They start with the premise that punishment creates resentment and hostility. Since children can avoid punishment by cheating, the lash—whether by strap or tongue—encourages dishonesty and is ineffective.

The new discipline teaches that instead of being punished, a child who misbehaves will be ignored. Since he is misbehaving partly to get attention, scoldings and reprimands only increase his mischief. Correct behavior will be rewarded by praise and privileges. Teachers will deal with "sins of omission"—like not paying attention—by rewarding the desired behavior when it does occur, and, if it never comes, by evoking it themselves and then rewarding it.

Dr. George L. Gropper of AIR and Dr. Gerard C. Kress, a University of Pittsburgh psychologist, have prepared instructional materials they use at their workshops. They hold that identifying problems and judging their seriousness is the key to successful discipline. We can only hope they find workable solutions. For there is hardly a school system in the land that is not beset by disciplinary problems today.

The Pollution of a Promise

Henry J. Taylor Says

Negroes and Urban Problem

When Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D., Conn., courageously blasted the "monumental hypocrisy" of his Northern fellow-liberals he referred to school segregation. He might have included the way they treat the Northern urban renewal problem as well.

The truth is buried, and we are called on to judge the problem blind, merely because of a Northern liberal taboo against placing the problem in its racial perspective.

Urban renewal expert Victor Palmiere recently struck a blow for the truth. He stated: "At the rate the Negro population is shifting, the big city of the future will be a Negro island spreading out over a metropolis that is both black and bankrupt."

Today about two-thirds of our population lives in metropolitan counties. Nearly 90 per cent of our population are not Negroes. Our Negro citizens represent a far smaller minority (less than 12 per cent) than generally supposed. But by a nearly incredible concentration they are now the core of the urban problem.

I have been recently in Oakland, Calif. The total population has declined five per cent in the past 10 years. The Negro population has increased 73 per cent.

In Oakland's urban renewal program only 15 per cent of its inner-city housing units are rated substandard. But Washington has been operating an incredible 125 different federal aid programs in Oakland, to say nothing of a $2 million Ford Foundation grant seven years ago. One was a skill-training center that graduated 47 cooks. Thirty-six found jobs — at a cost of $11,493 per trainee.

In the past 10 years the white population has increased in only eight of the country's 20 largest cities. The Negro population increased in every one of the 20.

In 1930 73 per cent of Negroes lived on the land, mostly in the South. But are we told that today over 75 per cent of the Negroes live in the North?

Among our 30 largest cities with over 400,000 population only six are even in the South.

The Negro population is mostly in the urban northeastern regions — the Great Lakes area from Milwaukee to Toledo, the Pennsylvania - Ohio steel centers, the Michigan 'Indiana automobile centers, Southern California, New York City, and the District of Columbia.

The shift has given Washington, D. C., the highest Negro percentage among the 10 largest cities. In 1950 this per percentage was 35. Today it is 66. Two out of every three people in our nation's capital, our ninth largest city, are Negroes.

In this same period, among the nine largest Northern cities, New York City's Negro percentage increased from 10 to 18 per cent; Chicago, 14 to 28; Los Angeles, 9 to 17; Philadelphia, 18 to 31; Detroit, 16 to 34; Baltimore, 24 to 38; Cleveland, 16 to 34; St. Louis, 18 to 36; Milwaukee, 3 to 11.

Between 1959 and 1969 the 10 largest Northern cities gained nearly two million Negro residents, while losing two million whites to the suburbs. And in this past 10 years the number of Negroes in all major cities increased 3½ million.

As one result, nearly every major Northern city now has areas over 95 per cent Negro. One Chicago area of 350,000 people is 98 per cent Negro. Central Harlem in New York is 98 per cent Negro. Meanwhile, even this is not the whole story.

As this column reported on January 28, Census Bureau Director George H. Brown told me the most difficult 1970 census task will be to count the Negroes concentrated in big cities. He estimated the count may fall short by as much as 13 per cent.

With the same "monumental hypocrisy" that Senator Ribicoff courageously castigates, many Northern liberals even refuse to relate such facts to law and order. Yet millions on millions of Negroes themselves bitterly resent this Northern liberal charade.

They bitterly resent, too, public officials who lack enough courage to stand up to intimidation, school principals who lack enough courage to meet mayhem, and legislators who lack courage enough to vote and enforce law-and-order regulations. The vast majority of Negroes want, beyond all else, decency, law and order and the protection of good neighborliness.

As Senator Ribicoff suggests, the Northern liberals should deescalate their rhetoric, come clean for a change by abandoning their taboos, and get on the side of the simple truth.

The Democratic New Left

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A party suffering such disarray as now afflicts the Democrats is like a mosaic wall pattern with broken and missing pieces. What you see is incomplete, distorted and sometimes comical.

If driving vocal energy could make a party, the activists of the Democratic New Left would have to be accepted as the hopeful unifiers for 1970 and beyond. But are they?

When the party's big council met in Washington to develop positions on the major issues, old Averell Harriman and veteran economist Gardner Ackley found themselves sharing the floor with youngish types like Curtis Gans onetime aide to Sen. Eugene McCarthy, and Gloria Steinem, a New Left cultist who calls herself a reporter.

Forward-looking party professionals thought that was fine, up to a point. Maybe it signaled the future, opening up the party, giving full house to the young.

Yet, even as they spoke of that prospect hopefully, some of those professionals indicated concern at the rigidities of viewpoint so thoroughly embedded in the New Left establishment.

It is hardly news to anyone that these types do not welcome opposing viewpoints. One of the sillier events of recent times was the little conclave in Miss Steinem's New York apartment, where there was talk of purging some incumbent. Democratic lawmakers. The complaint: The departure of these incumbents from the purity of New Left positions.

Some of the militant Democratic leftists sound like opposite numbers of the rightist John Birchers the country used to worry about a few years back. They have their little list, and if you don't score 100 in their book you are out.

Back in 1963-64, countless conservative militants (only a handful of them Birch Society members) played it this way as they pressed the presidential candidacy of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

There was evidently one notable difference. The Goldwaterities had among their number not only energetic field workers willing to give it one hard try, but some persistent types who gained local and state political power and built upon it. Here and there, some still have it.

The young Democratic leftists seem, for the most part, singularly disinterested in building anything but fiery English sentences.

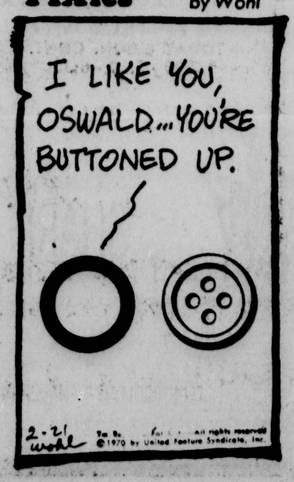

Their fabled field work (part fact, part myth) in McCarthy's behalf in 1968 did not produce a strong follow-through. For instance, in Minneapolis and St. Paul districts that year, they crushed the regulars as they captured national convention delegates and thereby gained post-1968 control of the areas.

Have they since organized this most insignificant bailiwick either for their own or the party's benefit? They have not. It is a big fat vacuum.

Busy proclaiming the unassailable rightness of their views in various party forums and drawing room conferences, many of the New Left celebrities are disdainful of the persistent field labors needed to win.

"I don't think they care about winning," says one top Democrat in a comment that rings the memory bells from the days when hot-eyed Young Republican stalwarts shouted they would rather lose than compromise.

Boyle Hired Political Huckster In His Fight With Yablonski

WASHINGTON — Tony Boyle, the beleaguered boss of the United Mine Workers, claims the press is out to hang him. But anyone who pays close attention will realize that Boyle built the gallows himself.

The press has refused, complains Tony, to investigate the background of murdered UMW insurgent Jock Yablonski, who challenged Boyle for the union presidency.

Boyle says Yablonski had "questionable associations and political connections." But when reporters tried to find out what these were, Boyle was not available for comment.

A UMW spokesman acknowleged that Boyle had no new charges to make, but was only repeating allegations made during the recent union election campaign.

In the bitter struggle for the union's top job, both sides made serious charges. Reporters who investigated found that Yablonski's charges were based almost invariably on the union's own records or on documents on file at the Labor Department. But when the press dug into Boyle's allegations against Yablonski, they found them either false or not verifiable.

Political Huckster

At times, the Boyle camp went to almost comical lengths to peddle its charges against Yablonski. To do the dirty work, Boyle hired a professional political huckster named Oscar Jager at a salary of close to $1,000 a week.

During the final weeks of the campaign, Jager produced documents which he said proved Yablonski sold mineral rights to his farm in Pennsylvania to the Republic Steel Co. at the same time he was responsible for enforcing UMW contracts with the company.

Jager took reporters from the Associated Press and United Press International to lunch at a posh downtown Washington restaurant where he, explained his conflict-of-interest charge and slipped them the documents.

When the two reporters checked out the story that afternoon, they discovered Yablonski had never even owned the mineral rights to his land.

Undeterred by his failure to put one over on these two veteran reporters Jager took a second UPI newsman to lunch the next day and tried to sell him the same story, again unsuccessfully.

Throughout the campaign, the Boyle camp accused Yablonski in statements prepared by Jager of being controlled by "outsiders" who were supposedly trying to take over the UMW.

When my associate, Britton Hume, asked Jager in an interview to name the outsiders, promising to investigate them, Jager balked. He said he couldn't name names while the campaign was still in progress because this might "open a kettle of fish." Pressed, he said he would come up with names after the election.

Hume again confronted Jager last week and asked him to name the "outsiders." Once more, Jager hemmed and hawed, but produced no names.

Election Scandal

In its continuing investigation of the UMW, this column has now learned the Labor Department has strong evidence that the election tally sheets from a union district in Canada was altered to cover up ballot discrepancies.

The sheets originally reflected about 1,000 more votes then there were ballots. Most of these votes were at first attributed to pensioned miners who are not even supposed to vote in the Canadian districts because they pay no dues.

When questions were raised by Canadian TV newsman Jock Ferguson, the union chieftains apparently decided they had better change their inflated, pro-Boyle vote tallies.

So now the tally sheet from Canada is smeared with erasures of the original vote totals at many of the locals. New totals have been entered in their place. In some cases, even the number of members of the locals has been altered.

Meanwhile, Tony Boyle rails at the press and at Yablonski's bereaved sons whom he accuses of public "ranting."

But listen to what one of Boyle's top lieutenants, Michael Budzanoski, is saying about the murdered man to anyone who will listen. Yablonski is "the scum from the bottom of the barrel," says Budzanoski, and "a professional burglar."

Vietnam Casualties

The most sensitive report that comes into the White House is the Vietnam casualty list. White House aides watch it each week with deep apprehension. They have set a cold-blooded limit of 100 casualties a week. They consider anything over that number to be politically unacceptable.

As long as the casualties remain below the 100 mark, President Nixon will continue the present disengagement pace. But if the Viet Cong should begin killing more than 100 Americans a week, the White House will begin an urgent review.

Soviet Union Is the Key To U.S. Domestic Budget

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Although it is not mentioned publicly, the success of President Nixon's domestic program in fiscal 1971 and the years beyond depends in large measure on reaching understandings with the Soviet Union on a number of difficult international issues.

The issues include strategic arms limitation, Berlin, the Middle East and Southeast Asia.

Of course, this does not mean that the President believes the Soviet Union has undergone some miraculous change into a benevolent, peace-loving society. It does mean he believes that without agreements based on mutual self-interest of the two superpowers, he will be unable to carry out domestic programs he believes vital to the success of his presidency.

The clues are in the economic projections made in the 1971 budget and in the report of Mr. Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers.

These figures indicate that if the U.S. standard of living is to continue improving at its past rate and if government programs at federal, state and local levels are to continue their inbuilt growth, something has got to give in the next five years.

In effect, the President is postulating that any new, important programs which become necessary by 1975 can be carried out only by sacrificing our accustomed standard of living gains or by giving up major programs now believed essential.

Pruning can be done on an assortment of domestic projects. Some can be eliminated. Nixon's 1971 budget attempts to eliminate or curtail 56 programs totaling $2.1 billion.

But it is in the defense area where Nixon's men see the real savings. The President and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird believe several billions in waste and post-Vietnam retrenchment can be squeezed from military spending in the next several years. That's on top of the $10 billion cut-back already announced.

But that won't be enough. Administration analysts are convinced that only drastically fewer men in uniform will give the President the dollars he requires.

In some small measure this can be achieved by cutbacks in U.S. forces in Europe, Korea and Vietnam. But these will not solve the problem so long as Russia and China are free to start trouble, directly or indirectly, at so little cost to themselves and so long as U.S. treaty obligations remain as extensive as they are. Under these conditions many of the men brought home from Germany, Korea and Vietnam will be needed here for use as ready-to-move strike forces.

We can't eliminate treaties with a flip of the wrist. It is questionable, in any event, that it would be desirable to change many of them except very gradually over many years.

The only way out, then, as Nixon men see it is to insure that our allies will never need to invoke these treaties. Or if they do need to invoke them, that they will require less help from the United States.

This means an agreement with the Soviet Union that would limit her ability (and the ability of her allies) to subvert or seriously threaten free nations — or at least to make such threats or subversion very costly indeed.

To accomplish this is quite a challenge.

What the President has going for him is the fact that that the Soviet Union has even greater internal economic pressures than does the United States. This could mean the Kremlin may be willing, however reluctantly, to agree to a curtailment of Russian military strength in return for the U.S. cutback.

Legislature Gets Many Plans Dealing With Drug Problem

By HOWARD CLARK
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — One way to stop the drug problem, a lawmaker said on the floor of the Senate recently, would be to bomb the Verrazano narrows of New York harbor to prevent the smuggling of narcotics into New York City.

Sen. Robert Garcia of the Bronx offered the suggestion without humor, however, as he deplored the extent of drug use among New Yorkers.

The proposal is among many that have inundated the legislature this year to deal with the drug problem. A few may even be passed.

Some of the other suggestions include a bounty to chase down drug peddlers, free heroin for addicts in state supported institutions, a special prosecutor to investigate narcotics traffic, and an investigation of the New York City police enforcement of drug laws.

Gov. Rockefeller has made three separate proposals for treatment programs. One would create a special commission to study the effects of drugs and the effectiveness of the state's drug laws. A second would expand and encourage development of treatment programs for narcotics addicts and drug abusers. A third would set up a $15-million program to provide the methadone substitute for heroin to addicts.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea has recommended a program that would provide housing and treatment for teenage addicts.

Minority leaders in the legislature have unveiled a 10-point, anti-narcotics program to teach youngsters the dangers of drug abuse — beginning in the first grade.

Assemblyman Chester R. Hardt, who directs narcotics legislation through the Assembly, concedes that the legislature seems more interested in the drug problem this year than in past years.

"Some of it is political, it is true," he told a reporter. "But I don't think we have realized until recently that the problem is so great among teen-agers."

Every one of the suggestions, including the one of bomb the harbor, has deplored the extent of the drug problem among the young.

"Twenty to forty per cent of the youngsters in New York City are mainlining heroin," said Sen. Robert Garcia, D-Bronx.

"Drug addiction has become the 1970 bubonic plague," say Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Stanley Steingut, the legislature's minority leaders.

"The biggest single problem facing our society is soft and hard drugs," Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea says.

"If you can believe the figures being bandied around," Hardt said, "at least 25,000 kids are fooling around with hard drugs."

The question that arises is what action the legislature will take to deal with the problem.

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges says he favors the governor's proposal to create a commission but not much more. At the same time, Brydges weighed in with his own program that would allow youthful offender status to be extended to first-time marijuana offenders up to the early 20s in age.

Two black lawmakers have expressed doubts that the legislature will do anything, despite the talk.

"You know when we going to move close to the problem?" asked Sen. Basil Paterson of Harlem in reviewing the proposals of the governor and the leaders of the legislature. "When it's their kids who are addicts."

"Let's stop releases and handouts and do something," said Sen. Waldaba Stewart, who represents the Bedford — Stuyvesant area in Brooklyn. "Let's do something meaningful."

Memoriam

In loving memory of my father, Charles Lukaszewski, who passed away 6 years ago, February 22, 1964.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
SON, WALLY

Memoriam

In memory of my loving mother, Mrs. Willis Brower, who passed away 16 years ago, February 22, 1954.
While you lie in peaceful sleep,
Your memory I shall always keep,
Missing You Always.
DAUGHTER, MILDRED

Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear mother, Margaret McDermott, who passed away two years ago, February 21, 1968.
Today recalls sad memories,
Of my dear mother gone to rest,
And the ones who think of her today,
Are the ones who loved her best.
PEGGY, JOE and CHILDREN

Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father, James C. Perry, who passed away four years ago, February 22.
Always so true, unselfish and kind,
Few in this world, his equal you'll find.
A beautiful life that came to an end,
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our father, Charles Lucaszewski, who passed away six years ago, February 21, 1964.
As we loved him, so we miss him,
In our memory he is dear,
Loved, remembered, thought of always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
Your Sons,
BUD, RAYMOND and WALLY

Memoriam

In loving memory of our mother and grandmother, Alma Steinhilber, who passed away one year ago, February 21, 1969.
We miss you now
Our hearts are sore
As time goes by
We miss you more
Your loving smile
Your gentle face
No one can fill your vacant place
Rest in Peace.
All our love,
Children and Grandchildren

Memoriam

In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Anna Buckman, who passed away February 21, 1963.
Though years may pass before we see,
Our Mother's face once more,
The faith she taught us at her knee,
Will lead at last to Heaven's door.
In our home she is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to her name.
Those who loved her in life sincerely,
Still love her in death just the same.

Joseph Murphy Dies, Was City Fire Chief

KINGSTON Joseph L. Murphy, former Kingston fire chief, died this morning, two weeks after being admitted to the Benedictine Hospital. He was 85 years old and resided at 64 Hoffman Street. He was an honorary member of the Kingston Kiwanis Club and a member of St. Mary's Church and the Holy Name Society of the church. He was the husband of the late Beatrice Harvey, who died on April 25, 1965.

Chief Murphy began his distinguished firemanic career in 1902 when he joined the Union Hose Company, a volunteer fire unit in Kingston. He was 18 years old at the time.

A few months after establishment of the city's paid department, Chief Murphy was appointed to the post of deputy chief engineer on Jan. 1, 1908. Among his duties as chief was the post of building inspector which he held until the city created a new office of superintendent of buildings.

He served as chief from Nov. 1, 1924 until June 30, 1955, when he retired.

The year in which Murphy retired (1955) the 66th annual convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association was held in Kingston and Murphy was saluted as the state's outstanding fire chief.

In 1965, Murphy was presented with a plaque in honor of his 30 years of service to the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. He was one of the original 24 members of the association.

Murphy was grand marshal for most of the Memorial Day parades in Kingston since he became fire chief in 1924 and for all parades given the draftees of World War II. He was also grand marshal for the Holy Name Parade on Oct. 1, 1939, which was held here in Kingston.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Donald (Elizabeth) Vanderlyn of Woodstock and Mrs. Philip (Mary) Gillen of St. Remy; six grandchildren; four great-grandchildren and a nephew, Joseph P. Murphy of West Hurley. Funeral services will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith Avenue, Tuesday at 9:30, thence to St. Mary's Church where at 10 a.m. a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home on Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. and Monday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig has order city flags flown at half-staff in respect to Chief Murphy.

31 Men Nabbed In Drug Raids

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (AP) — State and city police, armed with 32 bench warrants from a series of sealed indictments, have arrested 31 men on drug charges in the area of this city.

The raids ranged from Beacon on the east shore of the Hudson west to Walden and from Marlboro in Ulster County south to New Windsor, but they concentrated in Newburgh.

Heroin was the main drug seized. A total of 31 packages of heroin ready for retail sale were seized at one location, state police said.

Additional arrests were expected as several of the warrants had not been served. Several of those arrested were not named in the indictments, but were present where drugs were seized, police said.

Virtually all of those arrested face felony charges of sale or possession of drugs, principally heroin, police said.

Those arrested were brought to Newburgh City Court for arraignment.

KHS Students Create Art for Art's Sake

Kingston High School students who took top honors in the recent Hudson Valley Philharmonic poster contest display their winning wares for the approval of Wilford Springer, general manager of HVP. In the photo at left Calvin Saunders (C) exhibits his work of art which took first place. Howard Johnson (R) tied for third place with his baton and conductor's hands presentation. In the photo at right with Springer are James McGowan (C) second place winner and Gary Barten, co-third place winner. Response to the contest was considered excellent and HVP officials hope to make it a county-wide event next year. The Philharmonic has a number of teen oriented programs including in-school concerts, open dress rehearsals and the Young Artists Competition which has so far discovered five outstanding young string players who have performed as soloists with the Philharmonic. There is also the junior board, an organization made up of high school students interested in the arts and anxious to participate, and the orchestra in progress, a training orchestra for those who need or wish practice. The Orchestra in Progress is tapped for talent when budding musicians prove they have real ability. Winner of the poster contest was awarded tickets to the upcoming Skitch Henderson concert with tickets to the Joseph Fuchs concert in April going to second and third placers. Area Eisenhower Scholar

JANET GRUNER

HIGHLAND — Miss Janet Gruner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gruner, 14 Lockhart Lane, Highland, has been designated an Eisenhower Scholar by the trustees of Eisenhower College, Seneca Falls.

In addition to providing financial aid, this award is considered to be the most distinctive recognition an entering freshman can receive. The award reads, "The trustees of Eisenhower College elect Janet Gruner an Eisenhower Scholar in the Class of 1974 in Recognition of a Record of Achievement and Promise of Further Contribution to Society." Miss Gruner is a senior at Highland Junior-Senior High School and ranks second in a class of 104 students.

In addition to an outstanding academic record, Miss Gruner has been active in a variety of school activities and organizations. These include The National Honor Society, the Yearbook Staff, Activities Editor of the Fling, Intra-murals for four years, History Club, Senior Play, Hudson Valley Quiz Bowl (Highland High School team member for the last two years), and the Senior Seminar program at the State Collage in New Paltz.

John Rosenkrans, Eisenhower College president, states in a letter to Miss Gruner, "Beyond admission to the College, the most distinctive recognition my colleagues and I can offer to a prospective student is that of election as an Eisenhower Scholar. As one of the few to be awarded this honor, you are to be congratulated and I consider it a privilege to endorse the earlier notification of your selection." . . . .

Youth in the News High on Academic List

Youth in the News stars yet more honors in the academic world this week with a growing list of Ulster County bright ones.

As honor lists are compiled from the fall semester standings, area students are right there. Among those named to the dean's list at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy is John Gregory Hofler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hofler of Hurley. He is a senior at RPI majoring in biology.

More mail from Troy brings word of Ulster County students at Hudson Valley Community College who made the academic grade with honors during the fall. Included are Anthony Puccio, Highland, Sanford Whitman of Kingston, Dickson R. Warren and Daniel N. Maas, both of Rifton and Bruce H. Luhrs, of Saugerties.

Other Ulster County students attending Captital District schools also earned honors during fall semester.

Patricia L. Sparling of Kingston was named recently to the dean's list at Albany Business College. An executive secretarial major, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sparling of Box 262A, RD 3, and is a graduate of Rondout Valley Central High School.

Michael Strauss of 5 Patricia Lane Woodstock and Philip Cranks Jr. of 5 Peach Lane, Kingston, both first year pharmacy students at the Albany College of Pharmacy, were among those named to the dean's list there.

Strauss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Strauss, is a graduate of Onteora Central School. Crank is a Saugerties High School alumni. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Crank Sr.

Six students from Ulster County were named to the honors list at Orange County Community College, Middletown. They are Thomas Brown, Woodbourne; Carol Knoth and Carol Pierce of Wallkill; Jay Van Wagenen of Woodstock; Faith Buono of Glasco and Walter Knopka of Saugerties.

More far-flung reports from upstate and out-of-state include Ulsterites in scholastic action also.

Among St. Lawrence University freshmen honored recently at a special academic banquet was Kathleen K. Schoonmaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Benjamin Schoonmaker, Route 1, Stone Ridge. Featured speaker was D. Kenneth Baker, vice president and dean of the college who commended the selected students for their achievement during the first semester.

Mary S. Corsones of Kingston was named to the academics honors list at Castleton State College, Castleton, Vt., becoming a part of the school's history. The fall semester honors list is the largest in Castleton annals.

Honors of a different sort were accorded Gary Mulligan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Mulligan of 39 Main Street, Rosendale. A sophomore attending Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill., Mulligan was recently initiated into the Arnold Air Society, an honorary fraternity with the Air Force ROTC.

Membership in the society is limited to those cadets who meet the strict requirements regarding general character, physical fitness, acadamic achievement and their general active participation in the ROTC program. Gary is majoring in finance at SIU.

College careers for two area students are beginning and ending.

For Patricia L. Whiteford of 9 Blue Hills Drive, Saugerties, her undergraduate days are over. She completed the curriculum and course requirements for her bachelor of arts degree in elementary education at State University of New York at Fredonia. She will receive her degree during the annual commencement ceremonies May 30.

Meanwhile, Lawrence Breuer of 183 Pearl Street, Kingson, has been accepted for September admission to the State University Agricultural and Technical College at Delhi. A member of Kingston High School Class of 1970, he plans to major in business course at Delhi. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Breuer.

Onteora Has Winners

BOICEVILLE — Typing talents and a wise way with words are earning Onteora students top spots.

Beginning typing students at Onteora tested their talents on a department wide exam recently. With 120 typists taking the exam, 31 were successful in scoring 90 per cent or better. They were:

With 100—Eva Howland; 99—Betsy Warnecke, Brad Robbins and Maureen Ryan; 98—Cheryl Berry; 97—Sharon Shulz and Bill Bradley; 96—Chris Snyder, Joyce Rice and Bill Reilly; 95—Joyce Thayer, Ed Mercer and Ed Kahil; 94—Diane Reffelt, June Garrison and Linda Mueller.

With 93 — Diane Lumbaca, Annette Faulkner, Verna Quednau and Darlene Weber; 92—Harold Park, Sharon Umhey, Mary McGrath, Debbie Robbins, Dawn Barringer, Sue Braun and Helen Schaeffer; 91—Jim McGrath and Kiligan Weigand; 90—Kenton Knickmeyer and Cheryl Kellerhouse.

The test, which was given over two timed periods, consisted of two business letters, a columnar problem and a manuscript. Since the test was lengthy and erasing not allowed, the 90-and-above scorers displayed excellent skill and control. This was the second in a series of Business Department Typing Exams given during the school year.

Typing teachers at Onteora are Miss Judith Hiatt, Louis Egbertson, Gregory T. Gregor and Mernard Stahl.

With a score of 580 to 560, Onteora's Spelling Team won their second match over a formidable Coxsackie opponent on the WGHQ Spelling Competition broadcast last Saturday. In their first encounter on Jan. 31, they emerged with 150 points over Marboro's 600. The team will now play the winners of this week's struggle between Saugerties and Rondout in the final match scheduled for March 7.

The crack OCS orthographers were chosen from a group of 80 seventh and eighth graders who had volunteered to participate. Selection was made on the basis of a spelling elimination test from which two seventh graders and four eighth graders emerged with near perfect scores. Since the team must consist of two seventh and two eighth grade students, Brian Chapman and Sandy Winnie will participate in every match, while Kathy Flynn, Judy Stahl, Debbie VanValkenburgh and Dianne Walker will rotate.

"We were pleased," reports Miss Miriam Smith, chairman of the English Department, "When we were asked to compete. Since junior-high-school students respond so enthusiastically to contests, we initiated, at the beginning of this school year, a Spell-In for all seventh graders and Syncopated Syntax for all eighth graders."

Spell-In consists of five spelling tests, each containing 25 words selected from a basic list published by the State Education Department. Administered to the entire seventh grade at the rate of approximately one each month, the contest lists will be completed in March when an individual and a class winner will be announced.

With three tests already given, Bob Short, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Short of West Hurley, leads all contenders with a perfect score every time. Carl Newmann, Cheri Jorgensen and Cliff Scarth, with perfect scores on two of the three contest lists, are still possible winners, depending on the results of the next two contests.

Syncopated Syntax, designed to focus greater attention on grammar, particularly on an understanding of the structure and terminology necessary to achieve correctness of expression, consists of five contest sentences to be analyzed gramatically at the rate of approximately one each month. Administered to all eighth-grade students, the contest will end in March, at which time an individual and a class winner will be announced. The leading contenders for the title, after three contest sentences, are Lee Ann Houseman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Houseman of Woodstock, and Paul Malek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Malek of Shokan. With two contests still to be completed, however, the outcome is far from certain.

Folk, Rock and Fun Offered On Entertainment Calendar

KINGSTON — Hardstone Farm and Haunted House. No it's not weird real estate, just two of the features for the fun-packed Winter Carnival at Kingston High School next Saturday.

The Hardstone Farm will supply the music for dancing at the teens portion of the carnival 7 to 11 p.m. The Haunted House will be arranged to wow the youngsters from 1 to 5 p.m.

The 10th annual carnival sponsored by the KHS Student Council will be held at the Kate Walton Field House. Fun features for the younger set during the afternoon hours will include games, awards and refreshments in addition to the Haunted House. A surprise prize is another attraction.

The teen entertainment in the evening will allow the hard-working planners a moment's respite. Ed Brown is general chairman with Larry Feeney, co-chairman. Also assisting are Marilyn Lipton, publicity, and Jay Weiss, entertainment.

Proceeds will be used for scholarship grants by the Student Council.

Also on next week's agenda is a Night of Folk featuring local artists. The concert will be presented Friday 8 p.m. in the reception hall of Holy Cross Church, Pine Grove Avenue, under the sponsorship of the Junior Board of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

Participating in the program will be Steve Courtney, Rick Haltermann, Kevin Krajick and Ron Young in rare concert.

Tickets are now on sale from any Junior Board member or may be purchased at the door. Refreshments will be available in the coffee house atmosphere of the church hall.

Speaking of coffee houses, Last night's show at the Hobbit featured Carolyn O'Dell in her second appearance at the Kingston coffeehouse.

A student at Kingston High School, Carolyn lends her vocal and instrumental talents to Sing Out Kingston too.

Hobbit doors open at 8 p.m. with a new low admission price.

Tonight at John A. Coleman High School, a new blues and rock band, Twelfth Night, will be making their sound.

In this group are Tom Napoli who plays lead guitar and is one of the lead vocalists; Ronnie Amato, versatile organist with Beethoven to Beatles ability; Rick Shaw, the quiet man of the group does his talking with his bass guitar. Fourth man in the group is Jack Bierganns who is just back from a 14-month stint with the Army in Vietnam. He plays drums and serves as a lead vocalist.

Entertainment of a different sort is planned next weekend by the Rondout Valley Central High School bands. Tickets went on sale this week for the annual spaghetti supper to be held Saturday, Feb. 28 starting 5 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

The entire supper is homemade by band members and director, Lee Harrington. The sauce is a day-long labor, and has received much acclaim. For the first time this year sauce may be bought at the supper and taken home in the customers' own containers. Patrons must order sauce in advance from band members.

The Rondout Valley bands will host the Cumberland Valley musicians March 13 through 15 in the first part of the exchange concerts. The bands will rehearse and participate in social activities with the combined concert slated for Saturday, March 14.

The Rondout bands will go to Mechanicsburg, Pa., April 10-12 for the second leg of the exchange. Proceeds of the dinner will be used to this end.

TEEN SCENE: The Superfestivals Are Coming This Summer

By LEI

The mis-named Woodstock Music Festival in Bethel last year has brought varied reactions,, ranging from the hard-core adults who are determined that nothing of the sort will ever happen again, to the people who were there. They think nothing of the sort ever will happen again because it was a set of circumstances that can never be duplicated. Actually, most of the people who were there wouldn't want to duplicate "Woodstock." Once in a lifetime was enough. But to promotors, the words "Music Festival" have developed a magical ring, rather like that of a cash register.

So 1970 will be the Year of the Music Festival, in spite of the fact that, to most festival lovers, they will be anti-climaxes. With two possible superexceptions. For among all the planned sound scenes, there are two that stand out as having the possibilities of being either the fiascos or successes of the decade.

Both are billed as Peace Festivals, but that is about all they have in common. One, the "1970 United States Peace Festival" has as its unlikely promoter, the United States Government. With the cooperation of the music industry, and other connected ventures, the government is launching the blast in August, on Indian lands in Arizona, where presumably all the activity will only cause a few of the original Americans to do a rain dance, and give the remnants of the bison herds insomnia.

The board of advisors for this fest include Tommy James, John Lennon, Peter Fonda, John Lindsay, and Arlo Guthrie. It would seem that their advice might become slightly contradictory at times, but a wide range of opinion is needed to plan an affair which, it is hoped, will draw three million people to listen to music ranging from bubblegum through soul, underground, jazz, country, and gospel. There will also be a rodeo, for those who came looking for a little horsing around.

The federal government is handling the construction work. Sanitary and camping facilities will be available (it's hoped) for a week before the festival, and a week after it is over. This festival isn't worried about people sneaking in without paying, because there is to be no charge. The entire tab is being picked up by such supercompanies as General Motors, Coca-Cola, Union Carbide, Borden, and American Telephone and Telegraph. The avowed purpose of the festival is to bring youth and the government together, something formerly accomplished only by the draft.

The second mammoth festival is planned for the Toronto area on July 3, 4, and 5. The chief promoter of this event is John Lennon. It won't be free, but the proceeds—after the entertainers have been paid — will be spent directly through Lennon's new Peace Council.

Asked why he was planning the event for Canada and not for the United States, Lennon candidly replied that "Canada's attitudes towards recognition of Red China, Vietnam, NATO, and marijuana show a great amount of maturity which is very rare in the world today. The police here are less liable to turn a peace festival into a bloodbath."

Others are more concerned that it might turn into a mudbath, but Lennon has enlisted the advice of Canada's top festival producers to cope with the practical angle, such as sanitation and camping, while he concentrates on the talent angle. He promises to personally invite "everyone who is anyone," including Elvis, the Beatles, and the Plastic Ona Band featuring himself, Yoko, and Eric Clapton. Confirmations have already been received from many top British groups and singers such as Led Zeppelin, Joe Cocker, the Who, Jethro Tull, and the Grand Funk Railroad.

If summer brings nothing else, it will bring two very different music festivals with one common goal—peace. It ought to be interesting to watch the development of plans for them during the next six months. How these giant gatherings succeed will tell for once and for all whether three million people can get together for a musical event without the bad scenes that have marred previous festivals.

Johnson, Jackson Star

Maroons Down Middletown Five, 68-64

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON — Rocky Johnson and Chuck Jackson turned in their finest performances in Kingston High School livery and the rest of the Maroon quintet played the "ball game of the year" as the locals dropped visiting Middletown, 68-64, in a DUSO League thriller last night at the Kate Walton Field House.

The win insured the locals of at least a tie for second place and a chance to go to the sectionals, depending upon the outcome of the Port Jervis-Middletown game next week. It was the last home game of the season for the "Fighting Maroons," who are 4-3 in the league and 5-11 overall.

Coach Mike Rienzo's boys outscored the visitors in the second half, 43-26, and it was the offense of Johnson and Jackson, plus some timely rebounding by Jim Carroll and "Vino" Platts that sewed up the victory.

Defensive play by Pete Boyd also sparked the comeback as the plucky guard held Middletown's high-scoring Gary Klingman to 13 points. Johnson finished the game with 31 points, while Jackson added 16 and Carroll fipped in 12. Scott Brownley had 16 for the losers, while Keven Barringer added 15. In other DUSO action Newburgh continued its winning ways, drubbing Port Jervis, 96-33.

Rienzo had said, all season long, "If we can keep our turnovers under 20, between 15 and 17, we can contest any ball team we play." And, Kingston did just that last night, giving up the ball a mere 17 times to Middletown's 20 as they avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of the Middies.

The game started out as a see-saw battle with Kevin Barringer tossing in a two-pointer at the buzzer to give the Middies a 15-13 lead. However, in the second quarter, it looked like it was all over for the Maroons, as the visitors, sparked by the play of Brownley and Klingman, ran off 12 straight points, while holding the home-side scoreless for about three minutes.

Kingston was playing a zone at the time and commited 15 fouls for the first half as opposed to Middletown's four, playing man-to-man. The visitors took a halftime edge of 38-25.

Kingston came right back on the floor after a short halftime meeting and fans could sense that they were a completely different team. Whatever Rienzo told them in that brief meeting paid off in dividends, because the locals did a complete turnabout and dominated the rest of the game from the tap to the final buzzer.

The most fired-up Maroon of them all was Johnson. He played outstanding defense, blocking shots, tearing down rebounds and then he would streak the length of the court, to lead the fast-break.

Egged-on by cheers of "Do it to 'em, Rocky, do it to 'em", Johnson hit from all over the floor, scoring 10 of his 21-total as Kingston hit 11 straight at one juncture and took the lead, 48-47, on a shot by Jackson.

Jackson was the next to catch fire in the fourth quarter as he showed an amazing number of moves going to the basket on his man for key scores. Platts, Boyd and Carroll also combined as the Maroons fought off a last-ditch effort by Middletown. A basket each by Jackson and Carroll, plus two free throws by Boyd iced the win.

Rienzo was quite pleased, to say the least, with his team's performance. "Johnson, Jackson and the rest did a fine job," said the elated coach. "We did what we had to do, and that was cut down on our turnovers. The boys played one of their finest games all season," he concluded.

Kingston's JVs also got revenge for an earlier defeat by the Middies, winning 60-55. Ron Burris was high man with 29, While Jim Ferraro added 18.

McLain Vows He'll Return

Associated Press Sports Writer

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — "I believe and hope to God I'll be back in baseball this year," suspended Detroit pitcher Denny McLain said, adding he wou'd like to see his Tiger teammates who started spring baseball training across town Friday.

McLain spoke in front of his Lakeland home one day after Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn suspended the 25-year-old All-Star hurler indefinitely for what Kuhn called "involvement in 1967 bookmaking activities."

"If the ballplayers want to talk to me, I sure would like to talk to them, but Jim Campbell (Detroit general manager) hasn't said anything about their wanting to see me," he said.

Meanwhile, the Tigers opened up spring training at Merchant Stadium with the signing of all but one player, shortstop Cesar Gutierrez, who is en route from Venezuela.

Detroit's second foremost pitcher, Mickey Lolich, and first baseman Norm Cash signed their contracts Friday morning.

In a taped television interview with WTVT, Tampa, Fla., McLain also said he could not go into much detail about the suspension "because I'm under supervision by Commissioner Kuhn's office."

"One of these days, I hope people will find out what this is all about," McLain added, noting he has received "a tremendous amount of telegrams giving me their support."

"I've got to look for a job, I've got a home to pay for, a family to feed," McLain said. He added he would either have to "get back into baseball" or he'll have to go on the nightclub circuit again. McLain has appeared in several clubs, performing on the organ and singing.

Further troubles beset the McLain family Friday, when a suburban Detroit judge ordered the McLains to be evicted from their home near Detroit unless they pay $2,400 in back rent within 20 days.

McLain, who had a $90,000 baseball contract this season, has had other financial problems lately.

Earlier, the two-time Cy Young award winner said in a copyrighted interview with the Detroit News that he feels he will be reinstated within a month.

McLain also said, "I'm very sorry, I caused a lot of people a lot of embarrassment—not only my wife, Sharyn, but my father-in-law, (Baseball Hall of Famer Lou Boudreau), and my mother."

McLain said he's "embarrased baseball to a certain extent. I'm asking the benefit of the doubt. I apologize to the commissioner and I'm sorry anything like this has had to happen."

He said about Kuhn's treatment that "I can't see any other alternative for him to take."

The righthander, who won 55 games in the last two American League season, said in referring to his financial problems that "contrary to belief, 99 per cent o my problems stem from business. I made a lot of lousy investments."

Also Friday, it was revealed in Flint, Mich., that five persons, one of whom McLain has been accused of associating with in 1967, have been subpoenaed to testify next Wednesday before a federal grand jury investigating organized crime in Detroit.

Lakers, Celtics Victorious

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jerry West and Mel Counts have brought the Los Angeles Lakers home with a bounce too high for Lew Alcindor to handle.

West banged in 37 points and Counts added 22 as the lakers marked their return to Los Angeles after a four-game road trip by coming from behind to beat Alcindor and the Milwaukee Bucks 119-114 Friday night.

The victory brought the Lakers within two games of first place Atlanta in the National Basketball Assqciation's Western Division race.

In other games, Detroit edged Baltimore 122-119; Chicago topped Philadelphia 126-119; Phoenix downed San Diego 126-117 and Boston rallied to shade Seattle 127-125.

In the American Basketball Association, Dallas defeated Kentucky 142-138; Carolina trimmed Indiana 101-90 and Washington beat Los Angeles 123-118.

Trailing 64-54 at halftime, the injury-plagued Lakers outscored Milwaukee 21-5 in the first seven minutes of the second half and went on to snap the visitors' winning streak at four games.

Alcindor led the Bucks with 31 points.

Backcourt partners Jimmy Walker, with 31 points, and Dave Bing, with 27, led the Pistons past Baltimore. The Bullets finished the game under protest after Detroit's Howard Komives swapped punches with Jack Marin of Baltimore early in the final quarter—and was awarded two free throws following the scuffle.

Bob Love hit 10 of 14 shots from the floor in the second half as Chicago subdued the 76ers. Limited to six points in the first half, he finished with 29, including the Bulls' first eight in the final quarter. Chet Walker was high for the winners with 32 and Billy Cunningham had 26 for Philadelphia.

Phoenix remained two percentage points ahead of the fourth-place Bulls in the battle for Western Division playoff spots by beating San Diego despite a 40-point burst by Elvin Hayes. Gail Goodrich topped the Suns with 23.

Down by 12 points after three quarters Boston came from behind to beat the SuperSonics at Seattle. A jump shot by Veteran Don Nelson with 19 seconds left won for the Celtics.

Ganders Take Must Game

STONE RIDGE — The Ganders of Rondout Valley picked up another "must win" in their attempt to gain a tie with Highland for first place in the Ulster County Athletic League, by defeating the visiting cagers of Pine Bush, 60-41. In other UCAL action, New Paltz dropped Wallkill, 74-54, at home. Both games were played last night.

The Rondout quintet is now 9-2, with one game, against Wallkill, to play. The Highlanders have finished their league season and are on top at 10-2. A win over Wallkill by the Ganders will force a playoff situation.

Coach John "Chick" Meehan's boys got off to a sluggish start, and with many fans feeling that they might experience a let down at this crucial point, trailed the visitors, 9-7 at the end of the first period.

But, those fears proved to be unfounded as the Ganders, led by the outside shooting of George Wallach and Huyler VanWagen, outscored the visitors, 18-8 and led 25-17 at the half.

Pete Koola was high man for the winners with 17 points, 15 rebounds and six assists. Larry Baney hit 16 points and Wallach 12, for the Ganders. Tom Brock paced the losers', attack with 11 markers. Rondout hit 44 per cent from the field, Pine Bush, 26.

The New Paltz cagers exploded for 30 points in the final period to gain their 20-point decision over the hapless visitors. The Huguenots found themselves in a close game with the last-place Wallkill five and didn't like it, so Coach Frank Davis put his boys into a zone press in the final period and the result was murderous.

Grabbing the rebounds and driving the length of the floor on the fast break, the winners' broke the back of the Wallkill attack. Jay Ackert, who was high man for New Paltz with 18, scored eight in the last period while Ray Zappone also added eight of his nine. Ed Grainger hit for six and Brad Hart tossed in four.

Sawyers Bounce Beacon

BEACON — The Sawyers of Saugerties High School, paced by Bill Benham's 28 points, defeated the host quintet of Beacon last night, 78-73, in a Dutchess County Scholastic League Central Section tilt. The win insured the Sawyers, 7-6 in the league and 7-10 overall, of their first non-losing season in DCSL play since 1962.

Saugerties has one game left with Poughkeepsie.

Beacon, getting 32 points from Perry Williamson, took a 19-16 edge at the end of the first quarter, however, the Sawyers, led by Dave Smith, Rich Koegel and Benham, outscored their hosts, 23-17, in the second period to take a 39-36 lead to the lockerroom at halftime.

In the third quarter, with Koegel and John Carnright controling the boards, and Benham handling the scoring, Saugerties hit for 20 points to Beacon's 15, however, the Bulldogs weren't out of it.

Pressing all over the floor, Beacon staggered back to within three points as Saugerties missed four one and one situations from the foul line. However, Gerry Malgieri hit eight of his 10 points in the last period and Carnright made a one and one in the last 30 seconds to insure the win.

"I'm glad we aren't going to have a losing record in the DCSL," said freshman coach Jerry Hawkins. "It's nice to show some improvement in the first year. But, this wasn't one of our better efforts, although any win is a good one," he concluded:

Oakley Is In Semis

POUGHKEEPSIE — Ulster County Community College's wrestling team could place but one man in today's semi-final round of the Region 15 Westling Championships at Dutchess County Community College, and that one man, Rich Oakley, may just go all the way.

Obviously outclassed in most divisions, Oakley came through for Coach Mark Cranfield and his boys, picking up a win in the 142-pound class. The semi-final bouts began at 1 p.m. today at Falcon Hall.

Orange County Community College was the team leader for Friday's event, scoring 18 points and placing eight grapplers into the semis. Farmingdale Tech is second with 13 points and seven wrestlers in today's action. Nassau was third with 12 points and Suffolk fourth with 11.

OCC's eight grapplers scored seven pins in the eight wins. UCCC Coach Cranfield was unavailable for comment.

Ulster in Tournament

Region XV Selects Six Teams

By JIM MASSA

WESTCHESTER Ulster County Community College was one of six teams selected by the Region XV Basketball Tournament committee meeting at Westchester Friday evening.

Westchester Community College, Staten Island, Nassau, Suffolk and the host club Orange Community College were the other five teams given berths in the tournament.

Westchester was winningest team picked, with a 24-2 record, while Ulster is 19-3, Staten Island 14-3, Nassau 12-6, Orange 6-13 and Suffolk 15-2.

Two Berths Left Open

The tournament committee would not pick the seventh and eighth positions for the tournament as there are some important games to be played this week by teams that are being considered. Bob Lake, the Region XV director, would not reveal the names of the other teams that are being considered. This is a policy followed by the tournament committee.

"The selection of the above teams as participants in the tournament came as no surprise to anyone," said Lake "The committee will meet this Friday at noon in Westchester to select the seventh and eighth teams for the remaining two berths.

Perry Confident

Coach Mike Perry of Ulster is confident that his team will be seeded No. 1, even though Westchester was ranked No. 1 in the region this week. "I have always known the tournament committee has seeded the No. 1 team in the region as the No. 1 seeded team in the tournament, said Perry. "But I feel the only reason we weren't No. 1 this week was because of a lack of voting participation by Region XV coaches," added Perry.

"I'm sure that unless the policies of the past are changed that we will be the No. 1 team in the regional poll next week, and that we will be seeded No. 1 in the tournament," said Perry. "You don't usually beat a team the only two times you play them in that year and get rated below them, unless something is wrong somewhere," added Perry.

The normal pairings in the past have been the No. 1 seeded team against the No. 8 team, No. 2 against the No. 7, No. 3 against No. 6, and No. 4 against No. 5. With this set up in mind it is usually to a teams advantage to be seeded No. 1 as they aren't likely to get knocked off in the first game.

We would like to venture into the crystal ball as to who the regional tournament committee will pick for the vacant two positions. As we see it the only teams that could possibly be considered are Post Junior College, New York City, Concordia, Manhattan and Farmingdale.

The two likely and our picks would be New York City and Post Junior College, but who knows these days. We woud like to say that one team not heard about to much in this area and in the running is Concordia.

You can assure yourself of one thing sports buffs. This reporter will be at Middletown, in the Orange County Community College gym for every game played in the tournament and you'll get a full report of all the action. The dates for the tournament are March 5, 6 and 7. Best of luck Senators...and others.

A Thing About Ratings

CHARLES J. TIANO

Westchester Community College rates No. 1 Region XV ranking over Ulster County Community College, you say?

That's what the report says and it just arrived in the morning mail.

Man, what are you smoking these days?

Well, you look right here for yourself. It shows Westchester on top by one vote, with 45 votes to 44 for UCCC in the Region's latest Service Bureau Report, a fancy name for the weekly ratings.

But didn't Ulster County beat Westchester twice—the second time in the showdown for the Mid-Hudson Conference championship, you ask yourself. UCCC certainly did and doesn't that make this whole business of ratings just a little ludicrous? We think it does.

HERE WE HAVE A SITUATION where Westchester CCC with its resplendent 24-2 record is No. 1 in Region XV, while Ulster, No. 2 in the region, is 14th ranked nationally. If you can reconcile these figures, please let us know how you arrive at your conclusion.

Moreover, when the Region XV brass assembled in Middletown last night to pick the eight teams for the regional tournament, how did they react to the most recent batch of statistical phenomena to emanate from Selden, L. I.? Did they pass over UCCC, highest nationally ranked team in the region, in favor of Westchester, twice beaten by UCCC, for the No. 1 seeded berth? Check elswhere in this issue for the answer.

COACH MIKE PERRY of UCCC, who matures with every passing week, takes it all in good stride. If he harbors any bitter feelings about the slight of his Senators, he hides them very well. He has a feeling that somehow UCCC will survive the communique from Selden, L. I.

"Maybe some coach forgot to vote and that jumbled up the ratings," he says in a moment of largesse. "I think we have the best team in the region and we've already won the conference title. We rest our case."

Ralph Arietta, the class guy who coaches Westchester, may be happy with WCCC's newly-acquired status. But surely, deep down in his heart he must know his fellow coaches can't be right.

Arietta is himself one of UCCC's greatest boosters. Time and again he has been quoted as saying "Ulster is No. 1 in the conference and the best team in the region."

MINUTES AFTER THE Vikings' bone crushing loss by two points to UCCC at the auditorium a week ago, Arietta said it again. Instead of seeking alibis for the Westchester loss, he calmly repeated his earlier assessment of the Ulster club.

"We lost to a great team," he told us. "Ulster is No. 1 in the region and I think they can go all the way to the nationals. In Jerry Moss and Glenn Berry, they have the best 1-2 punch in the region."

Mind you, this is a coach who has a couple of guys named Steve Washington and John Thomas on his side.

The conclusion is inescapable. There must be a communications gap between Ralph Arietta and the other coaches in Region XV.

NOW LET US EXAMINE another "poll", the one issued by the New York State Scholastic Basketball Writers Association, a shadowy organization based in ice-bound Buffalo. But veteran Buffalo sportswriters assure us they don't know exactly where.

Our best information is that the NYSSBWA consists of two enterprising young men who file their weekly ratings of state high school basketball teams through the Associated Press. How they compile their ratings is a deep mystery.

For several weeks now they have consistently ignored that tremendous basketball team at Newburgh Academy, while listing Linton of Schenectady as the state's No. 1 squad. In their most recent ratings, they got around to granting Clarkstown of Rockland county the No. 10 spot.

THIS KIND OF RATIONALE deserves closer scrutiny. For example, Newburgh has lost only one game all season and that to Linton of Schenectady. The margin was four or five points. There is serious doubt that Linton could ever repeat the triumph on the NFA boards.

Clarkstown, on the other hand, was 12-0 the last time we noticed and probably the best basketball team between Albany and New York city. Metropolitan scholastic observers say Clarkstown is one of top three high school squads in the metropolitan area, including the city circuits and the powerful Catholic school conferences.

Clarkstown and Newburgh scrimmaged earlier in the season and reports say the Rockland team thoroughly dominated the session. Coach Mickey Burkoski's Goldbacks get a chance to prove it was all a mistake when the arch rivals clash in the Section 9 Class A finals on March 13 at the State U gym in New Paltz.

CLARKSTOWN CAN MAKE a farce out of the ratings with a decisive win over Newburgh. The Goldbacks, beaten only by Linton can stake their claim with a victory over Clarkstown. The poll is made to look ridiculous in either case. But Coach Mickey Burkoski isn't too concerned about it. He has been pointing for Clarkstown for a long time and that March 13 clash could be a schoolboy classic.

Sportswriters in the Albany-Troy-Schenectady area have consistently ignored the ratings and the hard bitten pros in Buffalo are even less charitable. The winner of the NFA-Clarkstown contest has to rate among the top three teams in New York state. Any other billing would merely expose the naked transparency of the whole deal.

Red Hook Beats Foe

MILLBROOK

Red Hook High School's cagers scored the "Upset of the Year" in Dutchess County Scholastic League, Bi-Valley action by defeating Millbrook, 55-53. Millbrook had been in undisputed possession of first place at 9-1, they are now tied with Cardinal Farley at 9-2.

The losers had a three point lead, 48-45, with two minutes to go when Red Hook got hot. Pete Collins hit three baskets, while Scott Martin and Tom Maybee added two foul shots. All the Red Hook scoring occurred within one minute and five seconds.

Mike Eades, Dutchess County's leading scorer, averaging around 30 points a game, was high man with 25, but missed the last five shots of the game for the home side.

Ray Kilmer had 21 points for the winners, while Collins added 20.

Pine Bush Gains Win

STONE RIDGE

The visiting grapplers from Pine Bush defeated Rondout Valley, 35-22 Friday night to tie the Ganders for first place in the Ulster County Athletic League. Both teams are 4-1-1 in the league, while the Rondout team is 10-3-1 overall.

It was the last regularly scheduled match for the Ganders, who will now compete in the Independent League Tournament, beginning Feb. 28 at Wallkill. The tourney will feature all the UCAL schools, plus Monticello and Ellenville to decide places in the sectionals.

Tom Coddington, Walt Brown and Pete Nekos remained undefeated for Rondout, but the rest of the squad couldn't manage enough points to top the tough Bushmen.

Pawling Five Beats Visitors

PAWLING

Led by Wright Dykeman's 15 points and Larry Freeman's 14, th cagers of Pawling downed the visiting Rhinebeck quintet, 62-51, in a Bi-Valley League tilt last night. Pat Loftus hit 18 points for the losers, while Cal Fowx added 12 and Bob Closs added 11.

Rhinebeck trailed by one, 16-15 at the end of the first quarter, but could manage just four points to Pawling's 10 in the second. Dykeman and Freeman traded baskets and foul points, each hitting five in the second period for the winners.

There are four games left to play in the association, which started its' play last September 14th. The Kickers opened their initial professional season and dropped 1-0 decision in the last two minutes of play against this same Elizabeth club.

Michaelis Raps 713; 711 for Petersen

KINGSTON

Rich Michaelis (713) and Herb Petersen (711) are the most recent entries to the 700 Club for the 1969-70 bowling season. Their scores sent the "700" list up to 20, just two less than the entire total rolled last season.

Michaelis accumulated his 713 off games of 236, 224 and 253, as he led to an 1104 set, fifth highest of the campaign. The team had a 3049 aggregate. Petersen spliced 243, 241, 227 to spark The Captain's Table to 1061-2923.

Neither series cracked the Top Ten, Michaelis ranking 11th and Petersen tieing Jim Hotaling for 12th place.

Big Bob Shelightner stacked a hat trick 685 off 231, 218, 236. Harry Smith posted 224, 221-629; Carlo Perry 224, 225-642; Bob Smith 221-605; Chris Gallo 227-617; Frank Bartroff 225, 221-637; Carmine Immediato 214, 221-619; Ron McCord 230-601; Milly Berardi 246, Bill Noreika 224-601, Cliff Miller 247-608, Benny Tiano 223-601.

Three Stars Score

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marty Liquori, perturbed by remarks calling him a "showboat runner," went out and showed his rivals how to run but Tom Von Ruden and Marty McGrady didn't need such a psychological boost.

Liquori, regarded as America's top miler; McGrady, who seems to set a record every time he sets foot on a track; and underrated Von Ruden emerged as the top stars Friday night with impressive victories in the second annual Olympic Invitational indoor track meet at Madison Square Garden.

The three performers, proving they're more than ready for the National AAU indoor championships and the upcoming outdoor season, were the standouts on a night when one world record was broken, two others equalled, six meets records tumbled and another meet mark tied.

The Villanova junior won the top race of the evening when he beat Henry Szordykowski of Poland and Art Dulong of Holy Cross in the 1500 meters race. Liquori ran the 1500 in a meet record time of 3:44.8 but of more significance to him was the fact he avenged a defeat to the Polish runner in last year's AAU meet and outran Dulong, the pride of New England who has won four mile races this season.

"I had to run two different races. One to beat Szordykowski, who has a real kick and to overtake Dulong, who has an extended drive," said the New Jersey athlete who won his eighth consecutive race in the Garden over a two-year period.

Von Ruden, who set a world record in the 1,000 meter with a clocking of 2:21, remarked after the race: "It wasn't that important a record, but I'll take it anyway. I like to set records."

The record was the Pacific Coast Club athlete's second set in the Garden this season. In the Millrose Games he set a new standard in the 1,000-yard event.

His effort Friday night earned him the outstanding performer trophy in the men's events.

St. Louis Blues Cast Spell Again

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Seals were going along just fine. They appeared to have licked the nemesis called the St. Louis Blues, but the spell returned once again.

The Blues, who have lost to the Seals only twice in the last three seasons, charged out for a pair of third period goals Friday night and a 3-1 National Hockey League victory.

The defeat was the first for Oakland on its current homestand which concludes tonight at the Oakland Coliseum Arena against the Pittsburgh Penguins.

The Seals had beaten St. Louis two weeks ago for their only win over the Blues this season. Oakland has won four games.

Gary Jarret gave the Seals a 1-0 first period lead when he rebounded errant shots by Mike Laughton and Harry Howell. Gary Sabourin tied things in the middle period.

Gerry Ehman's penalty in the third period set up Red Berenson's winning goal. A little more than two minutes later, the "Red Baron" rifled an insurance score past Seals goalie Gary Smith.

Introducing A Used Car Guarantee...
It Doesnt Come With Every Car

It's a 100% guarantee. Not one of those "we-pay-half-you-pay-half deals."

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and Performance test.

OUR AFFILIATION WITH A TOP TRADING AREA ALLOW US TO BRING TO ULSTER COUNTY A VERY HIGH CALIBRE BRAND OF MERCHANDISE AT THE LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICE.

We also guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1,000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantees? All kinds. Chevys, Fords, Ramblers, VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens).

So. The next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

No, our used cars aren't "just like new." No used car can be. But no used cars could be in better shape, either.

*Engine . Transmission . Front Axle . Rear Axle Assemblies Brake system . Electrical System

THE FOLLOWING ARE ONLY A FEW OF OVER 150
of the Cleanest Late Model Used Cars in Ulster County

Dear Abby

Prosperous but Lonely

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am lonesome. I am married and have two children, but I'm still lonesome. I have never lacked for material things. My husband is a very prosperous business executive. (Good family, fine education, etc.) We never have any real conversations. When I have his attention, I always feel that I must talk fast because after a short time he either leaves the room, or goes back to what he was reading. Or else he retires.

I am as well educated as he is. I keep up with current events, I am a good hostess and I take care of our home and children. I am attractive, have a good figure and know how to dress. We have a full social life, which he enjoys, but he has nothing to say to me unless it has to do with the children.

So here I sit, Dear Abby, alone as usual in my lonely newly decorated home, wanting so much to talk to someone.

I have told him how I feel. He says, "You have nothing to complain about," which is a typical one-sentence response to any dialog I might initiate.

What do I have to look forward to in my old age? I'd like some suggestions.

THIRTY NINE AND LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME: You and your husband are living "parallel" lives. Perhaps a dose of adversity, which has been known to strengthen many marriages, but was absent in yours, would have been beneficial.

If you want to improve your lot (and I think you do) for once, don't "talk fast" when you tell your husband that there must be more marriage than you have, and you'd like to see a counselor. Admit that the fault could be yours. (It could be.) If he refuses to accompany you, go alone. It can't hurt. Good luck. All you have to lose is your loneliness.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Our problem is a lady who sings so loudly in church that she drowns everybody else out. Not only that, but she sings way off key. She is a regular church-goer and is getting old, and she is really a very kind lady so nobody wants to hurt her feelings by calling this to her attention, but I can tell you it sure doesn't make for very good listening. Any suggestions? She gets louder every Sunday.

ANOTHER CHURCH GOER

DEAR CHURCH GOER: The poor woman is probably slowly growing deaf. She goes to church to pray, right? And so do you. So next Sunday, throw in an extra prayer for her, and forever hold your peace.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: A brief comment to "YOUNG AT 37." Poor little ding-a-ling. Is it possible that she is making such a racket tooting her own horn that she can't hear a few bells ringing at home? It might be better to be married to someone with a "fat fanny" than a fat head!

In case you think this is a case of sour grapes, I am 50 years old, and am 36-24-35.

BEA IN MODESTO

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. E. (whose drug-using son is now in San Jose): I spoke with someone at SYNANON, who is an expert in their field. I was told: "Tell that mother NOT to send her son any more money. Kids with a drug problem must be completely released by their parents, and this includes no money from home. I would still be out there shooting dope, as I was four years ago, if my parents had continued to send me money."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Quick Quiz

Q—Which of our presidents gave Memphis, Tenn., its name?

A—Andrew Jackson is credited with naming the early settlement Memphis after the Egyptian city.

• • •

Q—Which toadstool is regarded as the world's most poisonous fungus?

A—The yellowish-olive death cup, a member of the Amanita group. Among its victims was Pope Clement VII in 1534.

• • •

Q — Is freedom of worship permitted in Israel?

A — Israeli law insures freedom of worship for all faiths. Judaism is the religion of the great majority of Israelis. Moslems, Christians and Druses also live in Israel.

• • •

Q — Do any plants bear flowers both above and below ground?

A — Violets of certain kinds have underground flowers as well as the blossoms that grow above ground.

• • •

Q — What flower is named for a character in mythology who fell in love with himself?

A — The narcissus, named for the legendary Greek youth Narcissus.

• • •

Q — What tree produces the hardest wood?

A — The desert ironwood of the Southwest, which has wood as heavy as stone that blunts tools and can hardly be cut with a saw.

• • •

Q—What is the weight of the "Pearl of Allah," the world's largest known natural pearl?

A — It weighs slightly more than 14 pounds and has been valued at $3.5 million.

• • •

Q—How many natural satellites does the earth have?

A—Only one—the moon.

• • •

Q — What is a crabapple?

A — It is the original, wild tree. Our native crabapples are stunted and produce small, sour apples better for jelly than for eating.

• • •

Q — What chemical is used to produce fumed oak?

A — Oak is given a weathered appearance by exposure to fumes of ammonia from uncorked cans, being first given a coat of filler.

• • •

Q—What is the meaning of the name Jordan, Palestine's most important river?

A — Jordan means "descender" in Hebrew. Alone among all the world's rivers it flows for the greater part of its course below sea level.

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY FEBRUARY 22, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be moderate in statements, actions. Pace is not as fast as you may desire. But you can make steady progress. Key is understanding, mature evaluation of family situation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good lunar aspect today coincides with romance, creative endeavors, activity connected with children. This is not an ordinary day. You make meaningful decisions. Be confident.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Solid issues, money, intensified relations with loved one are featured. Nothing halfway — all the way or nothing. Specifically, you gain through real estate, property dealings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent on short trips, communications from relatives. Avoid scattering your efforts. Keep major objective in sight. Finish a project which represents fulfillment of obligation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Spotlight on money, possessions. New Outlook should be advocated. Stress originality, creativity. Be independent in thought, action. Cynic talks to hear himself talk.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Cycle is high; take initiative. Obtain hint from LEO message. Many observe. Be sure you are dressed for occasion. Your timing, hunches play big role. You appear to be on right track.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Some events which appear solid may be temporary. That is, what seems like a long run may be a flash-in-the-pan. Know this and act accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on friends, hopes, desires. Some restrictions are necessary. Sudy rules, regulations. You can overcome obstacles if knowledgeable. Be aware of apparent minor details.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be ready for some dynamic changes. Spotlight on achievement, advancement, added prestige. Co-operate in special community project.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good lunar aspect today coincides with finalizing of long-range plans. Could involve travel. Check with experts. Read your paper for special hints.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Delve deep; refuse superficial answers. Money is involved — so is your mate, partner. Clear air through frank discussion of real issues.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Permit others to take initiative. Lie low — play waiting game. There is no need to rush. One who urges you to sign papers may not be fully informed.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you never follow the mob. You have original thoughts, aspirations. You are due now to have opportunity for greater creative expression. If single, you could be taking step toward marriage.

(To find out who's lucky for you in money and love, order Sydney Omarr's booklet, "Secret Hints for Men and Women." Send birthdate and 50 cents to Omarr Astrology Secrets, The Daily Freeman, Box 3240, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.)

FORECAST FOR MONDAY FEBRUARY 23, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Lie low. Be willing to let others grab spotlight. Don't feel you can force an issue. Mate or partner is determined to hold fast. Bide your time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your health is something you should cherish. You actually do, but you don't always act like it. Rond-about way of saying keep those medical, dental appointments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Good lunar aspect today coincides with creative efforts. You will have to break through red tape. Leave details to others. Finish a project and present it. You gain plaudits.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stress on ability to see beyond the immediate. Long-range plans take precedent over short journeys, clever ideas. Insist on quality. Take the cash and let the credit go.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on how you get along with close relatives, including brothers, sisters. Your hunch about teaching program is sound. Follow through — you will gain by sharing ideas, knowledge.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Spotlight on money, possessions. Spread out — refuse to be limited by one of little faith. Accent social invitation. Your sense of humor comes into play. Opposite sex finds you charming.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Cycle high; means you are able to properly utilize knowledge. Timing improves. Your sense of independence is heightened. Make your own choices. Don't bow to taste of another individual.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Recognize need for privacy. Don't wear heart on sleeve. Be ready for change, travel, variety. Communicate with one confined to home, hospital.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Spotlight on hopes and wishes. Be careful of what you request — you are liley to receive it. Much activity centers around home base. Strive for harmony. Avoid foolish battle with relative.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get chance for personal advancement. But be sure promises, commitments are in writing. Otherwise, you could waste time and money — and drain emotions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Good lunar aspect today coincides with correspondence, communications with those at a distance. There is pressure. But you successfully meet challenges.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Push forward with ideas, ambitions. Money could be forthcoming from unorthodox source. Don't fear the unknown. Finish what you start. Financial backing will not be obstacle.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are perceptive, fond of writing, travel. You are never satisfied with status quo. You want to advance — you are progressive. You make a change this year which affects place of residence.

WHY WE SAY

ARTESIAN WELL

NORTHERN FRANCE: The artesian well gets its name from Artois, which was a province in Northern France where these wells were first drilled. An artesian well differs from an ordinary well in that it is drilled through one or more impermeable strata until water is reached whereupon the fluid spurts up through underground pressure.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Three centuries after the assault on the North American wilderness began in 1607, the director of the Census of 1890 declared, "There can hardly be said to be a frontier line" remaining in the United States, The World Almanac notes. A long unbroken line of unpopulated lands no longer separated settled areas from unsettled. The Census defined frontier as a large habitable area with a population of less than six per square mile.

'Copperfield' a TV Shiner

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Among television's most shining hours almost assuredly will be "David Copperfield," a video movie scheduled to beam March 15.

The cast includes Michael Redgrave, Ron Moody, Emlyn Williams, Richard Attenborough, Ralph Richardson (as Mr. Micawber) and Sir Laurence Olivier in a bit part.

Director Delbert Mann (who brought "Marty" to the screen) midwifed the two-hour show for American television and as a theatrical release elsewhere in the world.

Already in theaters in England, Mann has been criticized for tampering with the structures of the Dickens classic.

Reveals Youth in Retrospect

"I begin with David Copperfield as a grown man, and reveal his youth in retrospect," Mann said. "I felt we had to give it a modern interpretation and point of view to make it valid for today's audiences."

Dickens is second only to Shakespeare in English literary sanctity. Any change is a sacrilege.

"The performers balked when I first contacted them," Mann said on his return from London where the film was made. "But after reading the script they were enthusiastic.

"It's been 35 years since 'David Copperfield' was produced as a movie with Freddie Bartholomew in the title role and W. C. Fields as Micawber.

"Today it is a classic museum piece.

Today's Techniques Different

"Techniques of film-making today are altogether different. Audiences are looking for different things. And we've tried to take that approach."

Mann, a dedicated student of film techniques, said, "The critics haven't quarreled with re-interpreting Shakespeare. But Dickens is another matter, perhaps because his work is seldom done on film.

"Dickens' writings were a total reflection of his times. And the unique thing is that the problems of his day exist today."

"I haven't seen the old movie version since it was first released," Mann said. "Our interpretation remains faithful and true to the book but with the knowledge that a very few people have seen the original film and even fewer have read the book recently.

"We've done our best," he concluded. "We think it's excellent."

Correct Finesse Pays Percentage

There are any number of ways to bid to six no-trump in a match point duplicate game, the Method shown in the box is not the most scientific but it certainly is the quickest.

The contract is not an absolute laydown, but the play for six is so good that anyone who went down would be rather upset.

Not that there isn't a simple way to hold yourself to 11 tricks. If South decides to attack hearts, on the theory that he will make his contract if East holds either honor and will make an extra trick if East holds both, he will go down at the slam.

This play represents a 76 per cent chance but that isn't good enough. The best line of play is to lead the four of diamonds from dummy at trick two. If East holds the king, he may play it right away, in which case South's worries are over.

If East does play low, South should play his eight, on the theory that East is more likely to hold the jack than the king. This time, you lose to the jack and West leads a second club. Now you play out all your black cards, discarding a heart and diamond from dummy and then play the ace of diamonds. The king drops and you have your 12th trick. If it failed to drop, you would fall back on the heart finesse.

This line of play would work any time that East held either the jack of diamonds or the king of hearts, a 76 per cent chance, plus the extra chances of a diamond king play from East and a doubleton king of diamonds in the East hand or a doubleton king-jack of diamonds in the West hand.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Freeman City Hall Reporter

MEL MONES PRETTY well summed up Thursday night's Common Council by comparing it to Rowan and Martin's "Laugh-in." But one should be selective with the fickle finger.

True, the Council has its clowns, but they are in a definite minority (of the majority party).

Perhaps the most significant thing about the Council meeting was that it was held while Bob Gallo, the alderman-at-large was on vacation. This was no coincidence. Ed Norton, who put Thursday night's laugh-in together, was well aware of Gallo's absence. Norton is calling another meeting for the 24th, also apparently aware that Gallo won't be back until late that night.

It shapes up as a Norton-Gallo battle with Gallo in absentia.

There has been ill feeling between the two ever since Gallo took Norton off the prestigious Laws and Rules Committee and assigned him to the Finance, Ways and Means Committee in January of 1969. Finance is a big committee, too, but its not quite as big as Laws and Rules.

Norton, we are told, has been plotting against Gallo ever since, with little success. It is believed that Norton led the abortive attempt to scuttle the budget last month. Gallo handled that nicely, coming out with a 13-0 approval.

With Gallo out of town the stage was set for Norton's biggest coup. The grand finale may have gone something like this if it had come off: Norton: to Gallo: "I got the city hall passed. You couldn't do it in two years."

Of course it didn't come off, mainly because the Common Council is not composed entirely of clowns. The aldermen saw the move for what it was.

Norton, we would guess, knew he was beaten when he walked into the Council Chambers on Thursday night. He needed seven votes to pass the city hall plans. The vote against him was more like eight to four. Norton, we figure, had Mike Perry, Emillio Primo, Cliff Sinsabaugh and John Heitzman. Why Heitzman, no one can figure. John likes to throw the bomb.

Thus, Norton's little speech before the meeting telling the rest of the aldermen that they had had plenty of time to study the plans. Norton referred to the preliminary plans presented in the mayor's office. He said the time to act was now. Later, he recessed the meeting for another four days.

There was a great deal of discussion after the meeting about the committee report. The Republicans never saw one. Several Democrats we talked to aren't sure if they saw one. They said that Norton was reading something in the caucus room but they weren't sure what it was.

Louis DeCicco, the city clerk says there was a committee report. We'll accept his word on it.

Norton had two ways to go after the caucus. He could have put the city hall issue to a vote. He would have lost. He could have recessed the meeting and tried again (without Gallo around). There is an old Council rule of thumb that says "if you can't pass it, bag it." Norton bagged it.

His chances of passing the city hall plans on the 24th are nill. There's even a good chance that he may not be able to draw a quorum (seven aldermen) to that Tuesday meeting. A number of aldermen, in the heat following Thursday's meeting, declared that they would not attend any more meetings called by Norton.

Norton's failure to pass his legislation at Thursday's meeting was no doubt a crushing blow. The failure to get a quorum on Tuesday night could be the ultimate defeat.

Perhaps some good will come out of that abortive meeting on Thursday night. The politics of personality were exposed. There's been many a piece of legislation that has either been knocked out or stalled because one guy had it in for another guy for giving him the business on some other piece of legislation.

The politics of personality, of course, will continue. It isn't the issue that's important, it's the people pushing it (or opposed to it).

But perhaps the aldermen will learn a lesson from Thursday night. Perhaps they will now realize that one wheeler-dealer left unchecked can eventually make fools of them all.

* * *

SIDE BARS — We've seen plenty of "heated arguments" in the Council over some controversial issue, most of them being merely academy award performances. But after Thursday night's meeting, some of those aldermen were really burned up. John Machione went over to Mike Perry and said, "What the hell's the matter with you guys. Don't you have any guts?"

Machione and former Alderman Joe Epstein, the leading fighter for a city hall Downtown, got jawing at each other after the meeting.

Epstein, apparently overhearing Machione's remarks to Perry, said "How many votes do you have, John?" (Epstein was apparently referring to how many votes the opposition had). "Just one, Joe. Just my own," Machione replied. They argued for a while after that but we didn't pick up any of the conversation.

Most of the people were just shocked that such a fiasco could happen.

Judge Gives Chicago 5 Last Chance to Speak

CHICAGO (AP) — The five men convicted in the riot trial were given nearly two hours to speak in the courtroom before Judge Julius J. Hoffman sentenced each to five years in prison and a fine of $5,000.

The 74-year-old judge passed sentence Friday in U.S. District Court on the five men convicted of crossing state lines with the intent of inciting rioting during the week of the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

He allowed the defendants nearly two hours to speak on their behalf, then announced the sentences and fines and ruled that the convicted men must pay the costs of prosecuting their five-month trial.

The judge also ruled that the prison terms would run concurrent with the contempt sentences he imposed last weekend on the defendants and their two lawyers.

The prison terms were the maximum allowable under the federal antiriot law, but the judge could have fined each man $10,000.

Thomas A. Foran, U.S. district attorney and chief prosecutor, estimated the cost of prosecuting the case at more than $50,000. He said cost of the transcript would exceed $35,000 and fees for the 77 government witnesses would approximate $20,000.

Jury fees and the cost of housing the jurors, who were sequestered after the trial's first week, could reach $150,000, but the judge's ruling did not indicate the defendants would be liable for those charges.

In sentencing David T. Dellinger, 54; Jerry C. Rubin, 31; Abbott H. "Abbie" Hoffman, 31; Thomas E. Hayden, 30, and Rennard C. "Rennie" Davis, 29, the judge did not mention jury fees.

Judge Hoffman ruled that the defendants cannot be released from prison until the court costs and fines are paid, but the five men could avoid the payments by declaring themselves paupers.

Two codefendants, John R. Froines, 31, and Lee Weiner, 31, were acquitted by the jury of 10 women and 2 men.

In the courtroom statements, Dellinger told the judge, "I think you are a man who has had too much power over too many people for too long . . . You are like George III of England (king during the American Revolution.) You are trying to hold back the tide of history."

Davis said, "I hope that I will be allowed out by 1976, and when I do come out I'm going to move right next door to Tom Foran. I'm going to organize his kids into the revolution."

Hayden told the judge that his conviction would not halt the dissent of young people in America. "They're doing things now in the streets that we never did in Chicago during the convention week. One year later, the very thing they (the government) thought they could prevent by prosecuting us in happening, an interstate riot."

There were demonstrations Friday in seven cities.

Los Angeles police arrested 28 persons after a crowd of 50 refused to disperse near the campus of the University of California.

There were protests also in Buffalo, N.Y.; Philadelphia; Milwaukee; Lansing, Mich.; Louisville, Ky.; Salt Lake City and Evanston, Ill.; and a counterdemonstration in New York City.

Jerry Rubin concluded his presentencing speech by saying, "This is the happiest day in my life." He told newsmen that he and the other four convicted men did not like jails. "Don't salve your consciences by saying we're revolutionaries and that we don't mind jails. We have tears in our eyes."

Rubin offered Judge Hoffman a copy of his book, "Do It," inscribed: "Julius, you have radicalized more young people than we ever did. You are the greatest yippie."

Abbie Hoffman compared the rebellious acts of the defendants to the Founding Fathers.

Spiro Cites 'Firm' Judge

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has dubbed the five men convicted of crossing state lines with intent of inciting riots in Chicago "anarchists and societal misfits."

Agnew told 10,000 Republicans at a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner Friday, "the implications, vilifications and obscenities (in the trial), the posturing and the spectacular dramatics only delayed but did not deter the administration of justice."

He praised U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman for sentencing each of the five to five years in prison and $5,000 in fines. The vice president also commended the jury who, he said, "stood firm and resolute and saw through the disruptions and distractions" of the trial.

He said the jury "saw the defendants for the anarchists and societal misfits they really are."

As Agnew praised the judge and the jury, a longhaired young man ran from the back of the auditorium shouting, "That's a lie." He was quickly stopped by police, one of whom grabbed him by his hair, and the crowd cheered. Agnew paused but gave no other indication that he had noticed the disturbance.

Agnew also criticized leaders of the Democratic party, especially those who have taken exception to the outcome of the Chicago riot trial which centered on disturbances at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Two More Foes for Carswell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two more Senate Democrats have announced their opposition to the confirmation of G. Harrold Carswell, President Nixon's latest nominee to the Supreme Court.

The statements of Warren G. Magnuson of Washington and Stephen M. Young of Ohio brought to 15 the number of votes publicly aligned against the Tallahassee, Fla., federal court judge.

But Carswell is rated likely to win relatively easy confirmation to the seat which was denied Judge Clement F. Haynsworth. The Senate rejected Haynsworth 55 to 45.

Magnuson, one of the Senate's senior Democrats, said he considered Carswell "insensitive on civil rights."

He issued a statement saying the nomination "was obviously an attempt to politically appease the Southern group that supported Nixon at the Republican convention."

Young criticized Carswell's civil rights record and also said "mediocrity has no place on the highest court of the land."

He said he could name at least 10 Republican judges in Ohio who are superior to Carswell "as jurists and students of the law."

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved the Carswell nomination Monday, by a 13 to 4 vote. Its majority report credited Carswell with "balance and even-handedness" in civil rights cases.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, has forecast confirmation by a 2 to 1 margin.

Pentagon Takes Dim View Of Volunteer Army Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special commission takes its proposals for shifting to an all-volunteer armed force to President Nixon today amid skepticism among military professionals and Pentagon officials.

Sources familiar with recent deliberations of the 15-member commission said they understood the group favored a range of options costing up to $4 billion a year more.

The options reportedly spanned total military forces from about 2.2 million to 3 million men. U.S. armed forces numbered about 3.3 million men at the end of 1969 and are being reduced as the United States gradually withdraws its troops from Vietnam.

Sources said the commission headed by former Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. supports sharply increased pay for the lowest ranked servicemen, those in their first enlistment.

The aim is to encourage young men to join up at a time when presumably the draft will have ceased to function or will be at a very low level of inductions.

Meantime, CBS reported Friday night that the commission recommends Nixon change to an all-volunteer Army in July, 1971. The report makes no mention of the Vietnam war, CBS said.

The commission, appointed nearly 11 months ago, helps fulfill a Nixon campaign promise made before the 1968 election to work for elimination of the draft and substitution of an all-volunteer force after the Vietnam war.

But even before the commission acted, military officials who have worked in the manpower field claimed the indicated plan was unrealistic—that it was attempting to accomplish an all-volunteer force cheaply.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, who would hope to carry out any all-volunteer force objectives, clearly indicated doubts late in January. Laird said he believed the armed forces would have to be cut close to the two-million man mark to make an all-volunteer force work.

Also, Laird said the Congress would have to come up with "a considerable amount of money in order to maintain a large, up-to-date, modern, well-equipped reserve and National Guard."

Anti-U. S. Marchers in Manila Are Dispersed Without Violence

MANILA (UPI)—Anti-American demonstrators chanting "Yankee go home" marched in front of the U.S. Embassy for two hours today but then were pushed away by Philippine riot police ordered to guard the building against another firebomb attack.

There was no violence.

About 200 demonstrators gathered outside the embassy during the afternoon carrying anti-American placards. They circled peacefully under the watchful gaze of 300 policemen stationed there in the morning.

Some of the signs proclaimed "Death to imperialists and their stooges" and "Nixon doctrine kill! kill! kill!"

Only 100 marchers remained when shortly before 6 o'clock riot police, equipped with shields and truncheons, moved in and slowly pushed the crowd southward away from the embassy.

Military units and the police had been put on special alert in anticipation of the demonstrations, in contrast to Wednesday when police arrived at the embassy 45 minutes after the attack began.

The George Washington Birthday ball at the Embassy, an annual social event for the American community, was canceled and the building remained closed for repairs from Wednesday's attack by demonstrators.

Riot control units were assigned to the U.S. Embassy, the Nationalist Chinese Embassy and Manila's Chinatown.

Militant youths, peasant and labor organizations said they would demonstrate today against "American imperialism" and Chinese dominance of the local economy despite police refusal to grant permits for protest rallies.

The presidential palace was the site Friday of a counter-demonstration by about 200 open market vendors who demanded protection from "looters and vandals."

President Ferdinand E. Marcos authorized the march of the vendors, who claimed to represent 20,000 small businessmen.

Mrs. Polly Cayetana, president of the Chamber of Filipino Retailers, said "we are losing much to these demonstrations. We must ask protection from President Marcos against further damage to our businesses by unscrupulous vandals and looters."

Guerrillas Set For Policy Talks

AMMAN (UPI)—Arab guerrilla leaders went into their crisis meeting with Jordanian officials today accusing "certain circles" in the government of trying to limit their freedom again.

The head of the guerrilla movement, Yassir Arafat, returned Friday night from Moscow and was expected to head his delegation in the noon (5 a.m. EST) conference. King Hussein will not attend unless the talks reach a showdown stage.

Israel's information minister warned Friday his nation "could not remain indifferent if the guerrillas overthrow Hussein, "for in that case, Jordan would be liable to become a center for political and military intrigues and could serve as a foothold for Moscow's endeavors . . ."

Today's meeting was called so the two sides could try to iron out their differences in the government's attempt to take away guerrilla arms in the cities, limit their meetings and close down their newspapers.

Hussein agreed to suspend the order for these measures a week ago and a sembalance of peace settled over guerrilla-government affairs until Friday night when the guerrillas broadcast a new set of accusations.

". . . Certain elements in the government, army and security forces are still determined to take matters to an end, disregarding the (suspension) agreement that was reached by both sides," the broadcast said from Cairo.

Rails Roll Under Court Protection

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's railroads continue to operate today under protection of a court order that bars a strike until March 2, in the wake of a breakoff in contract talks.

U.S. District Judge Howard F. Corcoran Friday extended for another 10 days a temporary restraining order barring both a strike by four shopcraft unions and a lockout by railroads across the country.

Without the restraining order, the unions might have struck this weekend.

The judge, after hearing arguments, said he might rule before the 10 days are up.

The four unions representing 45,000 machinists, electricians, boilermakers and sheet metal workers who repair and maintain rail equipment, in December rejected a two-year contract that called for a 68 cent an hour raise retroactive for all of 1969. The current top wage is $3.60 an hour.

Only the sheet metal workers voted against the contract because of a work rule that would have permitted members of all four unions to cross each other's traditional job lines for a limited amount of work.

The unions had agreed in advance that unless all accepted the contract, all would reject it. But before talks broke down Thursday the three unions said they would sign a contract—but the railroads turned down the offer as being to no avail unless all agreed.

Francis M. Shea, attorney for the railroads, said in Judge Corcoran's court that all 128 railroads will be forced to lockout their employes if the unions are permitted to strike only one railroad—the Union Pacific.

Edward J. Hickey Jr., speaking for the shopcraft workers, said the carriers position is that a strike against one line violates the Railway Labor Act, "but if they strike them all and thereby create a national crisis, they are proceeding carefully.

The dispute has dragged out for 13 months under delaying provisions of the Railway Labor Act. Spokesmen for both the union and the railroads said there are no plans to use the court ordered 10-day period for further negotiations.

The Ice Tower at Profile Rock, Kaaterskill Clove

(INSIDE: More Catskill Falls in Winter)

Full Week's TV Listing From Feb. 22 Thru Feb. 28

Spangled Cataracts & Glittering Ice

KNOWN AS "DRIPPING ROCKS" since the time of the first settlers, these cliffs along the road through Palenville Clove live up to their name when winter makes them more than usually magnificent.

LIKE THE TOWERS OF AN ICE PALACE, the ever-varying panorama of Bastion Falls offers a study in contrasts in its glittering icicles and gushes of sometimes tumbling, sometimes trickling spray.

A PILLAR OF ICE as blue as the summer air augments the rugged beauty of Haines' Falls as February holds sway on the calendar. The seemingly endless ice cone at Haines' is easily 175 feet high.

ONCE IN THIRTY or forty years ice towers such as these are seen at the Upper Profile Rock in winter. Wonderful stories of men made speechless by the sight and uncomprehending by the stillness of the grave around them, have been handed down through the years. This winter, the glass tower is again at its legendary best.

"To visit the scene in winter is a privilege permitted to but few; and to visit it this winter (1843,) when the spectacle is more than usually magnificent, and, as the hunters say, "more complete than has been known for thirty years," is, indeed, worthy of a long pilgrimage. What a contrast to its appearance in summer! No leafy woods, no blossoms glittering in the sun, rejoice upon the steeps around. . . .

"There are overhanging rocks, and the dark-browned cavern, but where the spangled cataract stands a gigantic tower of ice, reaching from the basin of the waterfall to the very summit of the crags. From the jutting rocks that form the canopy, hang festoons of glittering icicles. Not a drop of water, not a gush of spray is to be seen. No sound of many waters strikes the ear, not even as of a gurgling rivulet or trickling rill. All is silent and motionless as death; and did not the curious eye perceive, through two window-like spaces of clear ice, the falling water, one might believe that all was bound in icy fetters. But there falls the cataract, not bound but shielded, as a thing too delicate for the frosts of winter to blow upon.

"It falls, too, as in summer, broken into myriads of diamonds,

Oscar Nominations Almost Ignore Youth-Appeal Films

Almost ignoring the trend to youth-oriented films, the Motion Picture Academy has given the most Oscar nominations—10—to a historical drama, "Anne of the Thousand Days."

By contrast, of nominations announced this week only one each went to "Alice's Restaurant" for best direction, and "Goodbye, Columbus," for best screenplay. "Easy Rider," a box-office bonanza about and for the disenchanted young, got only two—for best screenplay and best supporting actor, Jack Nicholson.

"Perhaps the squares like myself are still in the majority in the industry," one studio spokesman speculated. The academy's 3,100 voting members are thought to represent the film community's more mature segment.

'Cowboy' Gets Seven

Seven nominations did go, however, to "Midnight Cowboy," the kind of youth-appeal film toward which the industry recently has largely geared its product.

And it was a good day for young performers themselves, with nominations for newcomers Dustin Hoffman, Jon Voight, Elliott Gould, Genevieve Bujold, Jane Fonda and Liza Minnelli.

Goldie Hawn, blonde giggler on television's "Laugh-In," won nomination as a supporting actress in her first movie, "Cactus Flower."

Representing the old guard, durable John Wayne, 61, nominated in 1949 for "The Sands of Iwo Jima," was posted again for "True Grit."

Oscars in April

Winners will receive statuettes at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences' 42nd annual presentations April 7.

"Anne of the Thousand Days," Hal Wallis, Universal film about Henry VIII and Anne Boylen, was nominated as best picture. There were nominations also for its stars, old pro Richard Burton and Miss Bujold, supporting actor Anthony Quayle, and for art direction, cinematography, costume design, score, sound and screenplay.

Nominated as best picture of 1969 along with "Anne of the Thousand Days," were "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "Hello, Dolly!" "Midnight Cowboy" and "Z."

"Z," an attack on Greece's military regime, was nominated also as best foreign-language film, the first such double nomination in Academy history.

Those Nominated

The acting nominations:

Best actor: Burton; Hoffman and Voight, "Midnight Cowboy"; Peter O'Toole, "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," and Wayne.

Burton and O'Toole were both nominated for "Becket" in 1964. This is Burton's sixth nomination and O'Toole is an also ran in three previous starts. Hoffman was nominated for "The Graduate" in 1967, but this is Voight's first nomination.

Best actress: Miss Bujold; Miss Fonda, "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"; Miss Minnelli, "The Sterile Cuckoo;" Jean Simmons, "The Happy Ending;" Maggie Smith, "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," all making their first bids for Oscars.

Best supporting actor nominees were Rupert Crosse (The

GIG YOUNG earned a well-deserved Oscar nomination for "Best Supporting Actor" in "They Still Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

LIZA MINNELLI finds herself in a seedy motel with Wendell Burton in this scene from "The Sterile Cuckoo." Miss Minnelli has been nominated for a "Best Actress" Oscar for her performance in the film; can be seen in the role for which she was tapped currently at Red Hook's Lyceum Theatre.

PETER FONDA takes to the road on his motorcycle in "Easy Rider." The low budget film won an Oscar nomination in the "Best Screenplay" category and another for Jack Nicholson as "Best Supporting Actor." You can see why it copped both awards currently at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre.

MAGGIE SMITH will compete with four other female colleagues for an Academy Award as "Best Actress" for her emoting in "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," in which she played a school teacher.

JANE FONDA, already tapped as "Best Actress" by N.Y. Film Critics, has been tapped again for the same title by the Motion Picture Academy. The honors came for her emoting as a '30s marathon dancer in "They Still Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

GENEVIEVE BUJOLD of the Big Brown Eyes is up for Movieland's coveted Oscar for her queenly performance in "Anne of the Thousand Days." The film also received nine other Academy Award nominations in addition to the one that went to Miss Bujold as "Best Actress."

MICHAEL ESPOSITO is the Blues Magoo at rear left in this publicity shot of the rock group during the period he performed with the aggregation. Since leaving the Magoos, Esposito has concentrated on art as well as the new sound; will offer one of his unique drawings at the upcoming Woodsteck art sale to benefit the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

Rock Musician Turns to Art To Aid Hudson Philharmonic

Long-haired Michael Esposito, formerly a member of the highly successful Blues Magoos (managed by Longhair Productions), has turned his attention and considerable talents in the direction of classical music, which once held exclusive title to the "longhair" designation.

Esposito has done a delightful pen-and-ink drawing specifically for that art sale to be held in Woodstock for the benefit of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

Esoposito's contribution is significant, art show planners feel, coming as it does at a time when there is "a movement in Woodstick to promote understanding and tolerance among the various segments of the community through mutual endeavors." And no project, they add, could be "more worthy" than preservation of the Philharmonic — or more "unifying."

The benefit art sale to help the fund raising campaign of the Philharmonic will be held at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Route 212, Woodstock, on Sunday, Feb. 22 from 2 to 6 p.m. Promised for the events are works from more than 40 prominent Woodstock artists. Recent contributors of drawings or prints, all to be sold at low prices, include: Woody Ballard, Lee Downer, Isaac Abrams, Maya Jackson, Samuel Praeger, Bernard Steffen, William Pustarfi and Doris Nazarro. Others are: James Mulligan, Richard Crist, Eugene Ludins, John Taylor, Frances Stein, Stephanie Godwin, Lisa King, Kurt Sluizer, Dan Gottschalk, Cecile Froman, J.G. Cummins, Barbara Meyer and Mark Vukovic.

'Charlie Brown' Due Here Easter

"A Boy Named Charlie Brown," the fun-for-all-the-family film that has had audiences standing in line at New York City's Radio City Music Hall for months, will arrive in Kingston to delight movie-goers here at Easter time.

That's the promise of Robert A. Battaglia, City Manager of Walter Reade Theatres locally, who's just back from a full day meeting in New Jersey with the company's home offices, and a special meeting in Manhattan with Cinema Center Films to sign contracts for a special pre-released showing of the hit movie.

"A Boy Named Charlie Brown" will begin limited selected engagements during Easter following a record-breaking and lengthy run at Radio City Music Hall. General release of the film is not scheduled until summer, so Kingston audiences will be seeing it long before much of the country.

Battaglia told Tempo that "much planning and hard work" went into securing the movie for early release here, and more will go into arranging and publicizing the film for local showing. He believes "Charlie Brown" should have a wide appeal for all age groups in this area. Tempo would only add that it will be perfect fare for the Eastern holiday season; feels called upon to commend Battaglia and the Reade organziation for efforts to provide family fare during that particular celebration and school vacation period.

Just Like Broadway

DATES AND MATES is a riotous musical comedy aimed at providing exhilarating fun for area audiences. With book and lyrics by Mel Weiser and music and arrangements by Al Davis and Al Polhamus, DATES AND MATES will be presented by Red Hook High School students on March 6 and 7 at 8 p.m.

The musical will introduce play-goers to Madame Rinaldi and her two dizzy cohorts as they invade the dating and mating offices of Space Age Programmers. Little does the trio realize that the conflict arising will result in a weird battle of wits between the master computer and the human brain. Caught in the Middle of the hilariuos confusion created is Nancy Welsh, a lady whose own love life is problem-filled.

A fast-paced show, D&M's action lights up the stage with such musical hits as "Think!" which extols the unlimited powers of the human mind; "A Woman's Place" (in the home? in the office? where?); and "Sappiest Business," relating a strange merger of talents that will change the world.

By curtain time, the plot complications are resolved, but not before continuous laughter and ear-catching melodies have rocked the auditorium.

Directing "Date and Mates" are Phoebe Swope and Murray Van Ness, with Van Ness conducting the orchestra in the pit through a score to be remembered.

The Red Hook troupe is staging D&M with the cooperation of Hollywood Hits; promises a fun-filled evening of muscial theatre for your date or mate if you take him or her to see the show.

Amateur Hour Is 36

NEW YORK (UPI) — In March, it will be 36 years since "The Original Amateur Hour" began its career in broadcasting. The late Major Bowes was its creator and master of ceremonies. It started on a New York radio station, and a year later it was a pioneer show on network radio. Now on the CBS-TV network and known as "Ted Mack and the Original Amateur Hour," the program has just begun its 23rd year on television.

Art That Jumps the Barriers

They come from Afghanistan, Thailand and other countries. They can and should be seen by one and all from now through Friday, Feb. 27 at the State University College at New Paltz.

They are the interesting and intriguing art works of high school students from all over the world, and they have come to Ulster County from students in other countries who contributed work to be shown in this country.

A foreign exhibit of the International School Art Program, the show at Paltz is sponsored by the American Red Cross and the National Art Education Association. Tempo agrees with the area college that the display is an unusual opportunity for art students, teachers, and members of the community to gain a broader view of art education around the world.

Across the Barriers

Elementary and high schools in the area are encouraged to arrange for classes to visit the Paltz exhibit. Today, with a compelling awareness of language and cultural barriers between people within America, inter-cultural exchange becomes high important. And since this show speaks the universal language of art, it could aid in drawing people together even across these barriers, whether international or within the U.S.

The exhibit is on view in the Smiley Art Building, open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. Parents, as well as students, should find these highly original paintings and drawings of interest.

Chatterton Pioneered The Small Town Scene

C. K. Chatterton, emeritus professor of art at Vassar College, will have one-man exhibit at Chapellier Galleries, 943 Madison Avenue, New York, from Feb. 25 throught March 24.

Chatterton, a pioneer in depicting American small town scenes, had his last show at Chapellier in 1964. The new exhibit of 62 works in oil and gouache includes a number of his famed Hudson River scenes.

The artist was born in Newburgh in 1880, and studied at the New York School of Art under William Merritt Chase, Robert Henri, Luis Mora and Kenneth Hayes Miller. He was first exhibited in 1910 at the Mac Dowell Club in New York.

One of the First

Five years later he joined the Vassar faculty as one of the country's first artists-in-residence. That association continued for 33 years and 3,000 students, many of whom became artists, curators and art historians.

Chatterton has had one-man shows at Wildenstein and Macbeth Galleries in New York and Corcoran Gallery in Washington. His work been exhibited in group shows at Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Toledo Museum of Art, Rochester Memorial Art Gallery, National Academy of Design, Art Institute of Chicago, World's Fair, Brooklyn Museum, Carnegie International, and others.

The New York Times has said, "Chatterton must be reckoned among the indigenous — and important — American painters." Other critics have praised his "poetry of light," "forthright technique," and "directness and candor."

The artist, who is also well known for his painting of small towns in Maine, lvies at 2 DeGarmo Place, Poughkeepsie.

JONATHAN GREEN
(Tom Reynolds photo)

Protest-Minded Star of 'Girl'

Award - winning playwright Neil Simon's "The Star Spangled Girl" has only three characters. But each member of the trio contributes a share of hilarity to the comedy. And in the upcoming production of "Girl" by Kingston's Coach House Players, Jonathan Green will be responsible for fielding more than a few laughs.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Green received his B.A. Degree at John Hopkins University and his Masters degree in Urban and Regional Planning at the University of Pittsburgh. As an actor, he's new to Coach House audiences, but his theatrical experience elsewhere has been vast.

At Theater Hopkins he appeared in "A Visit to a Small Planet," "The Best Man" and "Roshomon." At the same theater he also directed "Arsenic and Old Lace." While at the University of Pittsburgh, he appeared in "Endgame" and "A Lion in Winter."

Mathematics Teacher

Currently a resident of Woodstock, he is now teaching mathematics at Kingston's J. Watson Bailey School, which will be the scene of Coach House's winter production of "Star Spangled Girl."

Plot of the Simon play revolves around the hilarious story of how ideological differences among three young people (two are protestors against the Establishment and one is super-patriotic) are overcome when love blossoms in their midst. Set in San Francisco, the original production ran for more than eight months on Broadway with Anthony Perkins and Connie Stevens in the cast.

Single tickets for the Kingston verision are $2.50 each and will be available at the door when "Girl" opens at the J. Watson Bailey auditorium on Feb. 26 at 8:30 p.m. The show will be repeated on Feb. 27 and 28 at the same time.

Dutch Like Color TV

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — The number of color television sets in Holland passed the 100,000 mark in the autumn of 1969, reports the Union of Producers and Importers of Radio and Television in Holland. The union says color television in Holland is gaining ground much faster than had been the case in the United States after the experimental stage there.

"Our Savings with US— makes the difference"

"The difference between scrimping along after retirement — or having the financial security to do what we want and to live the way we like to live.

"17 years ago we started a regular savings plan with Ulster Savings, putting aside an amount each month. Now, we receive that same amount in dividends every month and the money we have in savings is still growing!

Bob and Bing Hit the Road Again

"I asked Crosby to make a contribution, so he showed up," Bob Hope told the $1000 per person audience at his gala Eisenhower Medical Center dinner, held at New York's Waldorf-Astoria recently.

Considering that Crosby is worth a few million, his was quite a contribution.

Bob, Bing, Raquel Welch, Ray Bolger, Johnny Cash, the West Point Glee Club, fashion designer Oleg Cassini and Les Brown and His Band of Renown all did their bits for sweet charity's sake that night, and highlights of the evening's festivities will be seen when "The Bob Hope Special" was aired over NBC on Monday, Feb. 16.

The team of Crosby and Hope (or Hope and Crosby since it's Bob's special) was born when radio crooner Bing and vaudeville comic Bob played on the same bill at New York's Capitol Theatre in 1932. However, Bob and Bing had to travel eight years and several thousand miles before anyone realized they could make box office magic.

Bob says that his first movie with Bing grew out of what he calls "it-starts-out-to-be-this-then-somebody-gets-a-brighter idea." Paramount had a very serious film entitled "The Road to Mandalay," which, when rewritten, turned out to be a very funny comedy entitled "The Road to Singapore."

First, a call went out for two of Hollywood's top comedy stars, George Burns and Gracie Allen. But George and Gracie were busy on another project. Then, the film was offered to two of America's favorite funnymen, Fred MacMurray and Jack Oakie, but as fate would have it, Fred and Jack were busy too. Finally, someone decided to team the established film star Bing Crosby with his off-screen friend Bob Hope, who was beginning to make a name for himself as a screen comic, and movie history was made.

Ad lib ribbing characterized all seven "Road" pictures as well as every Hope-Crosby appearance on stage, radio, or television.

Off Stage Upstaging

It's only natural; they play "can you top this" when they're off stage too.

At the dress rehearsal for the Eisenhower dinner, Bing sauntered on stage in top hat, white tie and tails, and Bob cracked, "You look like one of those guys who drives a hansom in Central Park."

During a break in the rehearsal, called by the television crew for the special, Bob urged, "Let's hurry. You know how sleepy Dad gets around tea time!"

Bing's only rejoiner was, "Bob, I like you," and that killed Bob's next 48 jokes.

New Deal for Disney

STEVE CALLAHAN

Theatre: A Mini-Interview

"If theatre lore is to be believed," says Steve Callahan, "a playwright at rehearsal is a thorn in a director's side." Callahan counted himself lucky that the author was separated from the rehearsals by 1,000 miles when he directed his first original script.

But he's changed his mind since becoming director of two original plays by Ron Radice for Performing Arts of Woodstock. "In producing Radice's "Gem of the Ocean" and "Pickpocket," he says, he's "learned the joys of close collaboration with the playwright." He's also "unceasingly surprised," he adds, that the author of "two such outspoken and forceful works" has proved to be "helpful, flexible, and tolerant" during the period when the casts of both plays have been "struggling toward the meaning and structure of the plays."

The Radice plays, which will be presented by PAW in Woodstock beginning March 6, are strikingly different in style: one simple and more or less realistic; the other peopled with caricatures and evolving into wild surrealism. Nevertheless, says Callahan, "their common themes unite them into a balanced evening, during which "the contrast of authenticity and artificiality is examined." Often, there are overtones of Ionesco, Albee, or Van Italie, says Callahan, but infused with a unique sensitivity that marks them as Radice's own.

Callahan has found the technical aspects of "Gem of the Ocean" challenging; praises the talented PAW cast and crew for efforts in providing the audience with an exciting display of puppetry, bombs, banners, and surprises on opening night.

Director Callahan, an instructor of educational programming for IBM, received his Master's degree in theater from the University of Kansas, has been awarded "Best Director" honors for a production of "The Sport of My Mad Mother." He has worked in computer-aided theater research; directed William Faulkner's "As I Lay Dying" for PAW and was seen recently with his wife Julia in PAW's "Adam Plus One."

Bridge Painter In Campus Show

Cecil Jennings, whose paintings of the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge construction hang in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C., is exhibiting her paintings at Mount Saint Mary College, Newburgh through mid-March.

A retired New York City art teacher, Miss Jennings moved to Newburgh in 1958. Her interest in the bridge construction led to that series of paintings.

Miss Jennings has exhibited her work in many cities and galleries and in travelling art shows in Canada and the United States. She has studied under John Gould of the Bethlehem Art Gallery, Winold Reiss of Montana, John Pike of Woodstock and Ralph Scarlett of the Guggenheim Museum.

Aside from her paintings of Hudson Valley scenes, Miss Jennings has traveled through Mexico and Peru and to Europe, studying in various universities and artist's studios.

Visitors to the college are welcome to view the exhibit in the Library, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Saturdays and Sundays, 1-4 p.m.

'Builds in the starlight clear and cold,
A palace of ice where the torrent falls;
With turret, and arch, and firework fair,
And pillars blue as the summer air.'"

* * *

Those paragraphs, written by the now legendary artist Thomas Cole on a visit to Kaaterskill Falls in winter more than 125 years ago, are as descriptive of Catskill waterfalls today as they were then.

And, as in Cole's particular winter of 1843, the spectacle in this winter of 1970 is more than usually magnificent, more complete than in several decades.

The verse that ends Cole's tribute to the winter beauty of the Catskills is from a long poem by William Cullen Bryant, whose description of forms and hues on the rugged steeps, of the wild streams and crystal battlements, of the glassy walls and icy turrets could have been written today.

For those adventurous enough to go off into the Catskill woods on a wintry day, these mountains offer views well worth the toil. As Leather-Stocking said in those tales spun by James Fenimore Cooper: "that little stream of water been playing among them hills since He made the world . . . it's the best piece of work that I've met with in the woods; and none know how often the hand of God is seen in a wilderness but them that rove it for a man's life." (T.G.)

Eddie Bracken Buys Hyde Park Playhouse

Northern Dutchess County shows every indication of becoming a financial center for the stars. In the old days, headlines used to banner locations here and there as the playgrounds of the famed. These days, it's business and money that makes the world go round, and celebrities seem more interested in finances than in fun.

First out of Dutchess came the news that former child movie star Jackie Coogan would build a financial empire there. "The Kid" who made the rounds with Charlie Chaplin and made his millions in middle age with TV's Munsters, contemplated a mammoth residential and business complex on the shores of the Hudson.

Next it was Janis Joplin, the Queen of Rock and the music's only recognized female superstar, and Bob Dylan, the King of Folk and Folk-Rock, who wer putting money in Dutchess property.

Now it's Eddie Bracken, veteran of dozens of Hollywood comedies and currently TV's most unflagging crusader against cigarettes, who foresees a business boom in Dutchess.

Bracken has purchased the Hyde Park Playhouse through his Eddie Bracken Ventures Inc.; plans to open the theater for summer stock in June. Plans call for 10 or more shows during the coming season, with several starring Bracken himself, as well as other top professionals.

The Playhouse, one of the most spectacular-looking summer stock houses anywhere, was originally part of the stables and barns of the elegant F. W. Vanderbilt estate. Bracken plans to add 300 new seats, bringing it from 500 to 800 capacity, along with expanded parking facilities.

Hyde Park has been an operative theater since 1941, but has often seen hard times, even in the era when it ran on the star system, luring Buster Keaton, George Jessel and others to its stage. Last summer, Dore Schary's award-winning play, "Sunrise at Campobello," played there for two months, but they were lean months. Bracken, however, may have the formula to finally make it a cultural addition to the area.

Cupid arrows mingled with hunters' bows Valentine's night at Capri '400' when almost 200 nimrods and guests — all ready for sport — took aim and scored a bull's eye at 34th annual banquet of Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club.

Highlight was conservation award to Mrs. Roland Post, wife of the late Freeman sports columnist "Old Rip." Local radio personality, Tom Johnson, host of Hudson Valley Sportsman Show, did honors.

Banquet was dedicated to Ray Caunitz, active hunter, celebrating 80th birthday. Best Sportsman of Year trophy went to Nick Castiglione Sr. with Charlie Ruschak copping annual humorous award, both presented by club president John Lalima. Club director Bob Saehloff was emcee for 15th year.

Picked up a few tales 'bout these local anglers, some soundin' mighty fishy: Seems Steve Maidle shot his dog "Spook"; actually, it was accidental. But it cost him $20 to have Doc (Gilbert) Hoppenstedt patch up pup. Good thing dog didn't kick-the-bucket; "Spook" would've haunted him ....As for Steve Maidle Jr., hear tell he carries copy of "Playboy" in woods while hunting deer; no use wastin' complete day.

Winky Meyer claims "beagle's bark drove 12-point buck clear out of country." Speaking of Winky, understand club's tryin' to find him a can flattener; Winky tries to keep club grounds nice 'n neat but he's gettin' mighty tired of burying beer cans . . Chuck Bouton — with help of few buddies — built stand-in in tree last October, certain it'd get him a deer. When four-pointer noseyed up, Chuck aimed his trusty 30.06 and fired. Mr. "One-Shot" is now member of IMAD Club (I missed a deer club).

Bright red fireman's hat was given to Dr. Herb Zaccheo to wear while cooking Italian sausage on old wood cookstove in "Zack's Shack" . . ruler with honest and dishonest sides went to Paul McGuire for measuring fish . . foot-long cigar to handsome, bearded banquet chairman Joe Aiello . . . world's best fisherman trophy to Em Mayes. One award called for "bravest" sport in house to come forward and collect: Bill Brennan filled the shoes and won engraved gift: "My wife has drinking problem...me."

Winky Meyer claims it took two years to make a cane from bull-hide for Charlie Goble who refused to believe that was how canes were made; Charlie had to be shown. But Charlie still didn't believe it and neither did we when we spotted price tag . . . Ballantine Salesman Emil Froelich — one of few crewcut males around — won certificate from Mrs. Steve Maidl (JoAnn's Beauty Salon) for shampoo 'n set; his wife Betty bagged case of Ballantine (good thing it wasn't Schlitz) . . . Speaking of JoAnn, understand she's quite a sharpshooter, putting he-men to shame at club practice. Shooting must be gaining furor among weaker sex; Kay Cahill is going to use her $25 gift certificate from Spada's Sport Shop for new pistol. A special prize should have been given to the gentleman of evening, Highland game warden Al Roberts, searchin' for doggie bag for female guest's uneaten ice cream parfait??

Speaking of food, beef was tops; have to check Monday to see if sports shot it themselves. On Washington's Birthday, by George, they could not tell a lie.

Moshe Dayan's Relics at Fair

Rare archeological relics from the private collection of Moshe Dayan, Israel's Defense Minister and amateur archeologist, are being exhibited at the 26th National Antiques Show at Madison Square Garden from now to March 1. The collection has never before been exhibited as a show in New York.

The extraordinary monuments of the past have been selected through the cooperation of the American-Israel Cultural Foundation, the Israeli arts and crafts center, on behalf of the State of Israel. Each item is accompanied by an identification card signed by Dayan.

The relics were uncovered by the Israeli general on his digs in the Negev and are of significant historical value, covering the pre-Israelite era from 2,000 B.C. to 1300 B.C. Among the items is a Phoenician ritual wine glass, found in the Gaza, circa 200 B.C., and Canaanite bronze weapons such as cracking axe, sword and spearheads, circa 2,000 to 1500 B.C. found in Judea.

Other items of special Jewish interest offered at the National Antiques Show include a complete collection of coins and medals of the State of Israel since its formation, concentration camp money, relics from Middle European Jewish life of the 18th and 19th century and other historical memorabilia.

The National Antiques Show is open from 1-11 p.m. daily and from 1-7 p.m. Sundays and closing day. Admission is $2.50.

Bennet Offers 'Wedding Morn'

Delightful, old-fashioned entertainment is in store for audiences who look for fun behind the footlights on eight upcoming evenings. And fun abounds in "Parted on Her Wedding Morn," the next play slated at Millbrook's Bennett College.

Set for presentation in the Little Theater, Mellon Center for the Arts, on the Dutchess County campus, "Morn" will be performed Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 25 and 26 at 8 p.m., and Friday and Saturday, Feb. 27 and 28 at 7 and 9 p.m.

"Wedding's" comedy-melodrama plot will also take to the stage on Thursday, March 5 at 8 p.m., and on Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7 at 7 and 9 p.m.

Those interested in reserving tickets should call 377-3441, Ext. 237 on or after Feb. 19. On performance dates of Feb. 25-27, and March 5 and 6, Ext. 206 should be used after 5 p.m. On seats for Saturday, Feb. 28 and March 7, Call Ext. 206 from 1 to 8 p.m.

GLADYS BRODSKY and Philip Held, two of the three dozen Woodstock artists featured in the current Walcott-Fields gallery exhibit in Manhattan, discuss "new trend theme" of a Brodsky painting of youthful motorcyclist. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

36 Woodstockers Show in N.Y.C.

Just prior to the opening of the all-Woodstock show at New York City's Walcott-Fields Gallery last weekend, a number of additional artists were added to the roster. Three dozen art colony painters and sculptors are now represented in the exhibit for the benefit of the Woodstock Artists Association.

The most recent additions to the show include the long acclaimed Sigmund J. Menkes, along with painters Richard Jemison, Walter Johnson, Eva Plaut, Paul Tucker, Suzette Green, Anita Brancate, Mellissa La Due, and Sculptors Gary Hill and Ruth Zuckerman.

Previously announced as exhibiting were such recognized talents as Robert Angeloch, Brock Brokenshaw, Gladys Brodsky, Edward Chavez, Doris Lee, Anton Refregier, Philip Held, and others.

The current exhibit will run through March 1 at the Walcott-Fields, 14 Fifth Avenue. Daily gallery hours, including Saturday and Sunday, are 2 to 9 p.m.

Oscars Almost Ignore

Reivers), Elliott Gould (Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice), Jack Nicholson (Easy Rider), Anthony Quayle (Anne of the Thousand Days) and Gig Young (They Shoot Horses).

All the best supporting actress nominees were in the running for the first time: Catherine Burns (Last Summer), Dyan Cannon (Bob and Carol), Goldie Hawn (Cactus Flower), Sylvia Miles (Midnight Cowboy) and Susannah York (They Shoot Horses).

Two of the nominated directors, Sydney Pollack (They Shoot Horses) and Arthur Penn (Alice's Restaurant), were nominated for best direction Oscars, but their pictures were not nominated. The three remaining directors nominated were George Roy Hill (Butch Cassidy), John Schlesinger (Midnight Cowboy) and Costa-Gavras (Z).

All in all, despite the fact that John Wayne seems to be the sentimental favorite, the nominations for the highly-prized Oscars for film achievement were the most scattered in years. And although Wayne is among the five actors in contention for the top award, his movie was not nominated.

RICHARD BENJAMIN excelled in "Goodbye, Columbus," but failed to receive an Oscar nomination. The film, however, is up for a "Best Screenplay" award

JOHN WAYNE'S in the competition for a "Best Actor" Oscar for his Rooster Cogburn role in "True Grit."
